PROF. HUXLEY says that an oyster is a far more complicated piece of machinery than a watch.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN writes to the Boston Sun that he is quite willing to be a nominee for congress on the Democratic ticket.

MEDICAL experts now declare that hay fever afflicts none but people of great moral refinement and high intellectual attainments. By the way, gentle reader, as the story writers call you, how is your hay fever?

PRESIDENT HARRISON has been honoring this state with his presence this week at Secretary Wamamaker's private residence at Jenkintown. He attends the celebration of the founding of the first Log College—a Presbyterian institution.

SENATOR VEST, of Missouri, predicts that the Democrats will carry Montana at the first state election by a majority of 5000. We predict that events will prove that Vest was either insane or in liquor when he talked that way.

THE South Carolina man who ate six dozen fried eggs on a wager and an empty stomach one day last week will never repeat the performance. His was a case in which the fool-killer paid prompt and effective attention to business.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN'S floral tribute to the memory of his mother is a large anchor with a chain of carnations and surmounted by a dove. All the chief sporting men of the country contributed to the floral offerings, hiding death by a profusion of life in its richest beauty.

THERE was a most disastrous casualty at Antwerp the other day. In a factory containing millions of cartridges there was an explosion, which was followed by a fire and the explosion of all the cartridges in the factory. Three hundred persons were killed and five hundred wounded.

MARSHALL RANSDELL wants it to be understood that "the latest proposition of the Civil Service Commissioner, to put chiefs of divisions in the classified service will never receive the President's sanction." Who told him is not known, and he doubtless thinks it is nobody's business to inquire.

WHILE the Democratic party of Pennsylvania was so busily engaged at Harrisburg on Wednesday in protesting its love for the poor workingman, William L. Scott, one of Democracy's anointed leaders, was hard at work evicting his starving coal miners from their wretched and desolate homes out in Illinois. The two events illuminate the wide and bridgeless difference between Democratic promise and Democratic performance.

THERE is something refreshingly complete, if not satisfactory, about a duel reported from Idaho. The principals, who were unable to agree in regard to a young woman with whom each was in love, undertook to settle the matter with pistols. Both were shot dead on the second round. Duelling is to be deprecated in general and in particular cases; but when two men are so foolish as to resort to the barbaric practice they deserve the fate to which they voluntarily expose themselves.

WESTERN LAW.

The discussion of the various features of the constitutions of the new States has reawakened public interest in regard to the development of western law. Those rapidly growing communities on the other side of the Mississippi have adopted the old institutions of the eastern states in but modified forms. A Pennsylvania lawyer, with his hereditary reverence for the common law, feels very much surprised when he comes into contact with the novel procedure and still more novel principles of the accidental judiciature. The Habeas Corpus Act, trial by jury, and viva voce examination of witnesses are about all of his familiar institutions to be found there. Even these are changed in many respects. In the West a jury is generally waived in civil cases, except where the damages are unliquidated, and the action sounds in tort. All actions under the codes are brought in the same way, and this is the phrase used by the Western judges to denote an action of trespass. In actions involving the title to land, ejectments as we call them, juries are never asked for, unless the defendant is a corporation. In that case juries are always summoned, as there is a strong popular prejudice against corporations in the West, and the attorneys always count on a verdict for the plaintiff. The great majority of civil cases are disposed of by the court alone, who find the facts and pronounce the law. The system seems to work well, and there is a strong movement in the West to abolish juries altogether except in criminal prosecutions.

Not only is the procedure very much simpler in the West, less expensive and more speedy, but the laws which the courts are called upon to enforce differ in many important respects from ours. All the Western laws favor the debtor at the expense of the creditor. The legislatures are composed of farmers, who are generally in debt to Eastern capitalists, and they see to it that their creditors shall have as much trouble as possible in collecting their debts. The exemption laws are marvelously liberal. In Nebraska a man can, providing he is married, own a team of horses, a farm, household furniture, books, clothes, provisions for six months, cow, pigs and poultry, and his creditors may whistle for their money. Of course, as soon as a man gets into debt, he marries. This fact may account for the few unmarried girls in the West. But the Nebraska law is not so liberal as those of some of the other states, for it limits a homestead to $2500 in value. In Minnesota, a man can own a farm, not exceeding a certain number of acres, of any value. Many people own farms near Saint Paul and Minneapolis at a thousand dollars an acre, and have paid the taxes on them for twenty years with borrowed money, which they still owe to their long suffering creditors.

The western divorce laws are celebrated far and wide for their efficiency in dissolving the matrimonial compact. It costs less in the West to get divorced than it does to get married. All you have to do is to reside a short time (generally six months) in the state where you intend to apply, put in your petition and publish a notice in the paper for some weeks. The statutory causes are usually six in number. The ones most often alleged are cruelty, drunkenness and desertion. Under the former, a Nebraska Court granted a divorce because the penurious husband would not get his wife a sealskin coat. This was held ill treatment such as would break a tender feminine heart. Drunkenness is also liberally construed. It is reported that one divorce was allowed because the husband came home 'full' on Sunday morning, and kept his betterhalf awake by singing comical songs in the 'wee, sma, hours.' Many divorces are obtained on the ground of desertion. Adventurous people desert their conjugal companions, depart secretly for some western state, and, after remaining there the stipulated time, get a divorce. Some of the most amusing cases are those where a husband applies for a divorce from a termagant wife because of ill treatment. The ill treatment generally consists of a refusal to cook him any dinner, to stay at home and attend to the children, or tormenting him with religious lectures in the middle of the night. But sometimes the 'gray mare is the better horse,' and to prove her prowess betakes herself to cudgelling her liege lord, with the broomstick, the poker, the flat iron, or any other handy weapon. The first year of a young lawyer's practice is commonly devoted to obtaining divorces. They are supposed not only to increase his knowledge of practice, but also his knowledge of human nature.

The constitutions of the Western states, although formed on the same general model as that of Pennsylvania, diverge widely in many particulars. In all of them there are numerous provisions designed to control the power of the great corporations. They have not, however, been more successful in this direction. The judiciary is elective in almost all the new states; the terms are very short, and the salaries very small. The judges are commonly either old and wealthy lawyers who go on the bench as a climax to their careers, or young attorneys who seek the office as an advertisement. The Courts are held in general esteem, however, although the bar at large is not so highly considered as it is in the East. The reason is that the qualifications for admission are not very severe, and that there are many more lawyers than can find business. As they become poor they naturally lose influence. The ordinary attorneys are supposed to be ready to do anything for money, and professional etiquette is almost unknown among the majority of them.

In all the Western states women vote for school directors, in Kansas they have municipal suffrage also, and in Washington, a constitutional provision is to be submitted giving them the right to vote in all elections. The sentiment on the subject is very much more advanced than it is in the East. It is everywhere acknowledged that it is only a question of time till the "better half" of the population will vote. The western people are unsettled, and eager to try new experiments. They look down upon the Easterner who is attached to his old law and customs. They want something new. They are determined that the Western country shall be at least different from the Eastern. They scorn conservatism in law, in politics and in religion. Progress is their watchword, and, if it is to be brought about by change, they will certainly have it.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

It seems entirely probable that President Harrison has decided to convene Congress in extra session about October 20. The announced purposes of the Democrats of the House have rendered it more necessary than before that Congress shall be called earlier than December. The Democratic leaders make it clear that they will adopt a policy of obstruction both as regards the tariff and as regards the new rules and the seating of the contestants from the South and elsewhere. The Democratic Congressmen at Washington are outspoken in their declaration that they will resort to all means within their power under the parliamentary situation to prevent the Republicans from accomplishing any of their purposes.

This declaration simply means that they will do what they can to prevent the Republicans from securing such a system of rules as will enable the majority to control the House, as will permit it to determine what legislation shall be accomplished and to enact it, as well as to prevent it from carrying out its fundamental right under the constitution who are of determining entitled to be members of its organization. If, therefore, Congress shall meet in December and the Republicans shall be compelled to confront an organized Democracy which has such a purpose, it can readily be seen that the spring, for that matter, will be well advanced before Congress can properly enter upon its legitimate duties. If two or three months can, therefore, be gained before the new year, the new Congress will be to that extent, in a better position to grapple with the problems of finance and taxation which it is expected that it will undertake to solve.

THE LOCUST OR CICADA.

This (1889) is what is termed locust year for Central Pa. In all the animal and vegetable kingdom we can behold the perfect arrangement of God, in the order and beauty displayed. I have made some investigation of various insects, and there is no one, so far as my knowledge extends, that is more mysterious or wonderful than the locust. Their remaining for nearly seventeen years in a lonely and isolated condition in the earth for an enjoym nt of about thirty days in the air is a matter of great singularity, and coming up in various sections in different seasons, the origin or start of which cannot well be accounted for. I have been endeavoring to ascertain the extent or bounderies of our brood, but am not yet fully able to give it. The following counties have been visited by them this season: Centre, Blair, Huntingdon, in part, Clearfield, Mifflin, Union and Columbia. And from information obtained by correspondence, they were up in most of the eastern and southern counties in 1885. And in Westmoreland and part of Indiana (and no doubt in other territory adjoining) in 1883.

I have received letters from elderly men, stating they have made four entries of their appearance, all corresponding to seventeen years. Many have made mention of the damage done to their young orchards, and anyone who has noticed may have observed the number of dead branches caused by them on the young timber. My father set down 1821 as locust year and I have now added four entries since. But have never fully investigated their habits and mode of reproduction until this season. Their appearance being so long between, but few have given them much attention, therefore, but little is generally known of them. From close observation the present season I am enabled to make the following statement. They emerge from the earth in the latitude of Central Pennsylvania about the last week of the 5th month, coming up generally in the evening or during the night, crawl up a tree or some object at hand a few feet, take a firm hold as the last use of their earthly claws. The back of the earthly covering then cracks open and the perfect locust comes forth. It requires some time for the wings to open and become developed, but by morning they are generally able to start out on their aereal flight.

The noise or music is made by the male by a sort of bellows under the wings. After a flight of about two weeks, the female commences to deposit her eggs in the young branches of trees, prefering the apple when at hand. For which purpose she is furnished with a sharp spear about a half inch long, the point of which when examined under the miscroscope shows somewhat the form of the Indian's dart being flatetned and having numerous cutters or saw teeth on each side With this instrument she is enabled to very much fracture a shoot in a short time. The spear is protruded into the shoot or small limb, of some angling and a little to one side and a number of eggs larger than a timothy seed of a long form and white color are deposited, then taken partly out and turned to the other side and a like number deposited with great precision and regularity; being all so arranged as to admit the young to come forth at the one opening.

Their life above ground is about thirty days, during which time I have not been able to discover their eating anything. The egg or larva commences to hatch out, about the 10th of the 8th month. When the shoot or twig dies the eggs deposited in it perish unless it is near the time of hatching, hence the general idea of the shoots breaking off and the eggs getting to the ground in that manner is incorrect. The larva enlarges slightly while in the shoot and near the time of hatching assumes somewhat the appearance of a maggot, being able to move some and generally crawl to the opening before the young locust comes forth. The egg or maggot breaks open at the end and in a minute or two the infant locust succeeds in making his escape from the shell or husk and walks off.

I have had the pleasure of seeing specimens develop in my hand and also on shoots. The form of the young is precisely similar to that they have when they emerge from the ground, having their digging claws as then shown. They are very small and of a whitish color, a lens being needed to view them distinctly. I find they are easily dislodged by a slight breeze, or by a heavy breath from off the hand or a shoot; and being so small and light, descend to the ground unharmed, there to commence their long subterranean abode. My opinion is they always assume the same form while in the ground and grow very slowly. I have a number of the young under my care now and should they be suited with my treatment and I spared for a few years, will know more of their earthly life. They damaged one of my orchards very much this season, but I have been partly compensated in the pleasure I have had in my investigation.

A Plank that is Badly Decayed.

We regard trusts, in whatever form organized, as the result of the existing monopoly tariff, and we demand the repeal of such tariff taxes as enable them to control domestic production, by unlawful combination, and to extort from the people prices for their products.

If the premise in the above extract from the Democratic State platform were correct the conclusion might be true. But the premise cannot be proven to be true and the conclusion is utterly fallacious. In other words, there is no monopoly tariff in existence.

It is only a fool or a knave who will assert that monopolies are in any way allied to the tariff. And that the Democrats do not believe they are is proven by their actions. In their proposed tax reduction they made less reduction on sugar than on almost any other article of importance, but one of the greatest of the existing monopolies is that of sugar. They steadily oppose the removal of the internal revenue tax on whiskey, yet the greatest of monopolies is that of whiskey.

Then the Democrats make much of monopolists. It is said that while they were adopting this plank William L Scott was out in Illinois ejecting tenants from his houses in the mining regions, where a stupendous monopoly exists and where the miners are treated worse than they are anywhere else in the United States. Is Standard Oil a monopoly? The Democrats must submit to its influence, because there is Mr. Paine who was their Senator from Ohio and Mr. Brice who has been their National Chairman. Mr. Brice is also an importer of pauper laborers to work on his railroads.

Democracy is covered all over with monopoly. They are willing to change the tariff, but it would be done by them in a way to injure the business of the North and aid the great Democratic states in the South. This is proven by all the tariff bills they have attempted to formulate. The Republicans will adjust the tariff to suit the business interests of every section.

We are earnestly for tariff that protects every interest that needs protection. The merit of this is plain to the comprehension of every voter. It is clear that if we, in America, manufacture and raise every article we use, we will be better off than if we import it from other countries. We cannot compete and we do not want to compete with pauper and slave laborers of the lowest parts of Europe and India. In some countries men work for a shilling a day and are not as well off as were the slaves in this country.

The fact that under Republican rule other countries purchase from us more than we purchase from them is demonstrated by the fact that the balances of trade was invariably in our favor; during the years when Democracy was in the ascendancy this was always against us. The Democrats must demonstrate their position to be true before they attempt to deceive voters by many words.

THE BOY QUESTION.

MRS. C. H. RYNDER.

I tell you, Jim Brown, boys must go out of style
And become wholly obsolete after a while;
For there isn't a corner from garret to cellar
But what is too fine for a wide-awake feller.

The parlor—my mamma, you know is aesthetic,—
I hate that word worse than a downright emetic,
And she utters a scream if I turn but that way,
I haint been in it for many a day.

The sitting room, too, why the least little racket
Will tumble rare china from mantle and bracket.
Old stuff, full of cracks, and yellow with age;
I cant for my life see what makes it "the rage."

The kitchen, you know, "is no place for boys
For who, pray, can work in a litter of toys!"
I dont like the street, but the yard is all lawn
And quite too rare turf for a boy to tread on.

And I doubt if the dove by Noah sent out,
In all of its wanderings 'round and about
Felt quite as forlorn as a boy energetic,
Whose home cost ten thousand and whose mamma's aesthetic.

Paradoxical.

The world is but a paradox,
Things are but ill arranged,
A man whose hat is all stove in
Is apt to be deranged.

A man is surly when he's late,
And short when he is long.
He may not wish to do much good,
And yet may write quite wrong.

Some low men only eat high meat;
A fast man may be slower,
And some who've early been of late
Were oft behind before.

Our Story Teller.

A PACKAGE FROM PITTSBURG.

Saturday Night.

'Good morning?' said the new station agent.

'Good morning?' said Alice.

They had parted at 11 o'clock last night, having strolled home from the temperance meeting togetner, and they had found enough to talk about then. But here, under the bantering gaze of the ex-station agent, who haunted the scene of his former labors previous to his departure for Iowa, they were tongue-tied.

'Is there a package for me?' said Alice formally.

'I'll see,' said Cary Loomis, exploring with alacrity.

But Mr. Stark dived into a corner before him, bringing forth a large square bundle.

'This it?' said he. There was a twinkle in his eye. 'Miss Alice Lyman.' Paid too. But, see here, now—'Pittsburg!' Who's sending you presents from Pittsburg, Allie?' His twinkle was luminous.

'It's not a present,' Alice retorted.

But the ex-agent was not satisfied.

'Pittsburg,' he mused. 'Seems to me that surveyor fellow hailed from Pittsburg, didn't he Allie?'

'Shall I sign here?' said Alice to Cary Loomis over the entry book.

'And boarding next door, too,' said Mr. Stark, 'w-w, yes—it's natural—natural!'

'Oh, no, it isn't heavy, thank you. Why, lift it,' Alice was saying to Cary, with a laughing frown for her tormentor.

'Good-looking fellow, too,' said Mr. Stark. 'Wal, Allie, you've got my consent for one.'

'Thank you!' Alice laughed, but vexedly.

She had meant to say something to Cary Loomis over and beyond the conversation about the package—for had not the pleasant young new station agent seemed already quite attentive to her?—but now she could not summon a word or a syllable. If Mr. Stark were at the bottom of the sea!

'I don't know how Pittsburg'll suit you, Allie,' Mr. Stark persisted, mercilessly, 'They say it's smoky. But I s'pose smoke won't interfere——'

Alice was gone, and Cary closed the ledger with a bang.

'Were you joking, Stark,' he demanded, 'or is that so?'

Stark eyed him. He had a strong sense of humor, and he read the new agent's secret.

Without absolute statements he convinced the young successor that Alice Lyman had flirted outrageously with the Pittsburg surveyor; that he had been most devoted; that they were undoubtedly engaged, and that the big package from Pittsburg was proof of it.

Cary had grown a little pale during the process, but so strong was Mr. Stark's humorous sense that he strolled away finally with a widened grin.

Cary found his dinner saved warm for him when he went up to his boarding house something late, and Mrs. Davis, large and cheerful, waiting to serve it to him.

But to-day, neither his dinner nor Mrs. Davis cheered him. He ate one and responded to the other grimly.

'Well, now; may be you ain't feeling just smart: I've known change of air and water to make folks real sick,' she hazarded in concern.

'Oh, I'm all right,' said Cary, sardonically smiling.

'May be you need livening up. You've been to the sociables and temperance meetings, to be sure; but maybe something livelier——Well, there,' she broke off, with motherly interest, 'there's the music in the park to-night; I guess you'll like to hear that. You better step over to-night,' said his landlady inspiritingly.

He had no intention of going. He decided, with a certain melancholy satisfaction, that he would spend the evening in his room, and without a light; that would be the fitting situation for him and his dejection. She would be in the park, and perhaps the Pittsburg surveyor would follow his package, and be there with her.

All the same, for such is the power of pretty eyes and red lips, 8 o'clock found him in the park. He would not go near Alice Lyman. He strolled about gloomily. All the town appeared to have assembled. The band was, one by one, mounting to the band stand.

'Oh, Mr. Loomis,' somebody exclaimed, with a pretty laugh, 'I had almost run over you!'

It was Alice—Alice with a loose knot of young men and maidens, not yet paired off, but well connected.

He joined them, of course; there was no other way.

And, a few minutes later, when they had paired off, and the band had struck up, he found himself on a bench beside her—they two alone.

'Home, Sweet Home!' said Alice. 'Dear me, Mr. Loomis, couldn't they have found something a little newer?'

'It seems not,' said Cary, unsmilingly.

'But how they flat!' cried Alice clasping her ears. And that second horn is a bar behind.

She was in a gay mood. Her derisive words were mirthful.

'And they've been practising all the spring. Well, I could do better with a comb and some tissue paper!'

A whiff from the syringa she wore was wafted to him.

Her face, in the dusky light, was bright and yet soft.

She was thinking about her surveyor, probably, and laughing in her sleeve at him. Well, let her.

Poor Cary felt suddenly weary of his anger. He was in love with a pretty girl who did not love him—that was all. She could not be blamed—he would not blame her. He could hate the man she did care for, but he could not hate her.

So, while the band labored unmusically on, he bent toward and talked to her gently.

He told her of the really fine open air concerts he had heard at Brighton Beach. He described the odd, varying scene—the mass of people who thronged the walks, the long, crowded hotel piazzas; the circular pavillion from which the music poured forth; and bounding it all the great still water.

He found Alice looking up at him, as he ended, with a new keenness in her eyes and a softer smile.

'I have never been anywhere,' she said, almost in a whisper. 'I don't know anything. I wonder, Mr. Loomis—I've wondered more than once—that you care to talk to me! I——'

But she said more than she meant to. He knew that her cheeks were hot and her eyes confusedly lowered.

His heart throbbed hard. He got up abruptly.

That remarkable march they're murdering is driving everybody away,' he remarked. 'Shall we follow, Miss Lyman?'

'I think so,' said Alice.

Her finger pressed his offered arm.

A man who had been listening in his halted buggy, wheeled about as they stepped into the road.

He was driving a colt, and a frisky one.

Was it the marvelously bad music which made the horse jump as he turned?

Alice was on the point of asserting it, but he swerved so close that she sprang back with a scream.

Somehow the whirling buggy struck her. It flew down the road the next instant, but Alice lay in a prone heap in the dusty road.

Cary Loomis groaned as he bent over her.

'Alice!' he cried. 'Alice, darling! are you hurt?'

He raised her to her feet, his arms about her.

'No, no!' she protested. 'That back wheel struck me as it flew around—that's all; it didn't even bruise me. Only I'm dusty enough,' she ended, laughing.

'I am so sorry!' he murmured. 'You sprang away from me so quickly that I could not save you. You must be hurt.'

'I haven't a scratch,' she retorted. 'I—I think I will take your arm, Mr. Loomis.'

In a bewildered way he withdrew and offered it. Then:

'I owe you an apology, Miss Lyman,' stiffly, as they went. 'I—I called you something. I was so startled that I called you—perhaps you did not hear me?'

'Yes, I did,' she murmured, with head averted.

'Well,' he burst forth, desperately, 'an apology, did I say? Well, I apologize, Miss Lyman. But I only said what I couldn't help, Miss Lyman. Try not to blame me! You will have a right to tell the man you are promised to, if you choose, and he will have the right to horsewhip me—but I couldn't help it! I try to forget it!'

'I don't understand you,' said Alice, turning toward him at last and squarely. 'What can you mean, Mr. Loomis? The man I'm promised to? I'm promised to nobody!'

But she was promised to somebody soon and in short order.

'Stark,' said Cary—he was too happy to be sharply discerning, and he regarded Mr. Stark with blind eyes—'Stark, you were wrong, let me inform you, about Miss Lyman and that surveyor from Pittsburg who boarded next door to her. She is not engaged to him. She never was, Stark, and never will be!'

'Sho, now!' Mr. Stark's long countenance beamed forth an almost infantile blankness. 'Wal, I'm beat!'

He was fifty or so, Stark, and Alice hardly exchanged a dozen words with him.

'Fow, pshaw!' said Mr. Stark, with a wide gaze of incredulity.

'No, sir, not a dozen words! And that package—he was going to Pittsburg, you know, and he heard her telling the lady he boarded with that she wanted a lot of worsteds, and some she couldn't get here, and he offered to get them for her when he got home. And he did. That's what that package was, Stark.'

'Wal,' said Mr. Stark, stroking his stubby chin, 'how I got it into my noddle I dunno—don't for the life of me! I hain't been so took back, I dunno when!'

But he coughed queerly as he walked away.

Mr. Stark's sense of humor was abnormally developed.

A BOY IN BAD COMPANY.

It happened in Chelsea and on the day of the great Sullivan Kilrain fight. A little boy, the son of a highly respectable citizen, questioned his father as follows:

"Papa, who do you think is going to win, Kilrain or Sullivan?"

"What is that?" exclaimed the astonished parent. "You talking about prize fighting? What company have you been in? Mary (to the mother), do you hear this boy? Do you hear him asking me about this prize fight?"

"Oh!" replied the mother—motherlike—"I suppose he has heard some of his playmates talking about it. Boys will be boys, you know."

"He has no business to be with such playmates. He never hears me speaking of any such low and disgraceful exhibitions such brutalizing spectacles. I would have this prize fighting business put down by the strong arm of the law, swept off the face of the earth. My lad, if I ever hear you talking about anything of the kind gain I'll—I'll—well, you'll get into trouble, that's all."

Next morning when he went down stairs his wife handed him the paper, saying:

"I had the curiosity to look to see how the prize fight came out, and it appears that Kilrain is whipped."

"Whipped!" exclaimed the denouncer of prize fighting, "then, jingo I've lost $10!"

"What do women talk about?" asked Rollo, coming in from a meeting of his debating society. "All the time, my son," said Mr. Holliday, wearily, "all the time."

A Venial Trespass—Squire Bluenose (to young gentleman and lady, evidently lovers): 'Now then, sir! Can't you read? Didn't you observe that this road is private?' Edwin: 'A—m—yes! To tell you the honest truth, that's exactly why we came here!'

'How much does young Smifkins earn in the Government service?' asked one of that gentleman's friends of a department chief. 'I beg your pardon,' was the response, 'but you mean to say 'How much does he receive?' do you not?'

Fair Tourist: 'Oh, how interesting! These are real cowboys, aren't they! What hardy, rugged creatures they are! I suppose their every-day life is fraught with the greatest danger.' Guide: 'Yes, mum: 'twas only last week we hung three of thim for horse-stealing.

Wife (to husband as they are about to start on a Summer excursion). 'Will I have time to run across the street to mother's to bid her good-bye?' Husband (consulting his watch): 'I'm afraid not, dear. The carriage will be here for us in an hour and a half-sharp.'

It is becoming a very common practice for authors to give copies of their works as wedding presents. We have nothing in particular to say of this practice, only it strikes us as a very lucky circumstance that it did not prevail along about the time. Fox wrote his 'Book of Martyrs.'

Last week out in Ohio lightning struck a cornet player, knocking his instrument from his hands and melting it, but without seriously injuring the player. He afterward confessed that he was just going to play "In the Sweet By and By," with the echo refrain. Providence never makes a mistake.

A Pennsylvania paper tells of a man who was gored by an angry bull and severely injured "while passing through a cow pasture with a red flannel shirt on." We have been telling the farmers of this country for years that if this foolish and expensive decoration of cowpastures in bright colored flannel shirts wasn't stopped somebody would get hurt. Now see what we told you.

TALMAGE'S SMILE.

A Grin That Would Make a Monkey Laugh and a Crow Forget Its Cunning.

Minneapolis Tribune.

Such a smile.

It would frighten gloom from the torture of toothache and chase joy on the wings of the morning.

It spreads out like an overflow at the mouth of the Mississippi, and sinks in like the depths of the ocean.

With a countenance as solemn and as homely as the sphinx, the smile breaks over it like the silver rift in a storm cloud, or a dancing sunbeam across the gloomy mouth of the Mammoth cave. The whole man is transformed and the morgue like shadows disappear in the glowing brightness of the noonday sun.

You can see that smile as it slyly twinkles and winkles in the corner of the eye, then slyly steals downward and skirmishes along the expanse of cheek to the twitching lips, until it charges all along the line, captures the whole countenance, and is lost in the mouth, which opens like a widening crevice in the earth's surface, or the bellows to a church organ.

Such a smile would sit still and lonesome on an ordinary mouth twelve or fifteen inches wide, but on this one it gambols like a frisky colt at play on a new mown lawn, and with the sprightly movement of a dog firmly attached by a tail coupling to an ignited bunch of cannon crackers. It is none of your fair weather smiles, but one that gives a Graeco Roman fall to dyspepsia, and plants mirth on the face of sorrow in three rounds.

It is a regular brain reaching risible wiggler, as spontaneous as a kitten's antics, lingering as an unpaid bill, mysterious as a woman's reason, sudden as a an unpleasant fact, receptive as a baby's mouth, as infectious as smallpox, with the get-there quality of the bedbug, and would tickle an Indian cigar sign into hysterics.

It scares sorrow, creates mirth, and throws out the longest pole to knock off the laughter persimmon that ever converted gloom into a side show or turned melancholy into a circus.

It ebbs and flows like the ocean's tide, leaves as much trace on the place it travels over as the serpentine fluttering of a feather on a bald man's head.

But its effect on the audience is like the opening of a spring, or peaches and cream to a hungry tramp. It first passes over one like the mist of a gentle rain, gradually curls the corners of the mouth with the suddenness of an April shower, and finally bursts over the countenance like a rainbow of promise and merges into laughter that peals forth like the rumble of thunder from the gentlemen, and sits enshrined in the exquisite dimples on beauty's cheek like the glistening dewdrop on a shell pink rose.

It is a ninth wonder, and stands upon the face of Dr. Talmage like Edmund Dantes on his tiny island in mid ocean exclaiming "the world is mine."

It is a grim winner with a blue ribbon tied to its tail, and drives away slumber like a Minnetonka mosquito.

It is a grin that would make a monkey laugh, and waft a breeze through a baboon's whiskers.

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving, cheering words while their ears can hear them and while their hearts can be thrilled and made happier by them. The kind things you mean to say when they are gone, say before they go. The flowers you mean to send for their coffins, send to brighten and sweeten their homes before they leave them. If my friends have alabaster boxes laid away full of perfumes of sympathy and effection which they intend to break over my dead body, I would rather they would bring them out in my weary and troubled hours, and open them that I might be refreshed and cheered by them while I need them. I would rather have a plain coffin without a flower, a funeral without an eulogy, than a life without the sweetness of love and sympathy. Let us learn to anoint our friends beforehand for their burial. Post-mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit. Flowers on the coffin cast no fragrance backward over the weary way."

THE BIGGEST BANQUET EVER GIVEN.

The municipality of Paris gave a little dinner on Sunday, at the Palais de l Industrie to which 15,000 persons sat down. The dinner was given to the provincial mayors, who numbe 13,000, and the Senators, deputies, town councillors and journalists who sat down with them numbered 2,000 more. Ninety-five cooks, with 100 assistants, had rovided 600 gallons of soup, 125 of sauce, 6,600 pounds of fish, 3,400 of beef, 600 ducks and 1,200 geese. The guests were waited upon by 1,000 waiters and 40 butlers. The number of plates required was 80,000, and if piled up they would attain a height of 6,000 feet. There were 15,000 bottles of claret, 3,000 of Graves, 1,800 of Maderia, 4,500, of Pomard and 4,000 of champagne. They were kept cool in six tons of ice.

The mayonnaise sauce was made on Saturday; 2,000 eggs were used for it, and it was stored in three barrels. The 1,200 geese which were served up cold, and the ducks which were made up into pates, were put on the spit Saturday afternoon. The 30,000 rolls were baked at the last moment. This was the biggest banquet in the history of the world.

CLAUS SPRECKEL'S NOVEL SCHEME.

HE PROPOSES TO BUILD AN ADDITION TO THE WHITE HOUSE OF BLOCKS OF SUGAR.

Washington Special to New York Sun.

Claus Spreckels, the sugar king, has another scheme. It is nothing less than to build an addition to the White House out of blocks of hardened sugar. It appears that, in the business of shipping cargos of this immense produce to Mexico, Mr. Spreckels has found it necessary to solidify them in some way into large blocks, in order the better to transport it to its destination and to preserve in when it has arrived against the attacks of different and varying climatic conditions. To perfect the process it required a great deal of experimenting, but the result, according to the representation of the sugar king, have passed beyond all expectrtion. Mr. Spreckels maintains that he is now able to produce blocks of sugar whiter than marble and harder. He is naturally reticent on the subject, but can be seen to possess unwavering confidence when he considers the possibility of an architectual revolution. Mr. Spreckels himself never tires of expatiating upon the beauties of the scheme. He unfolded it more fully than Dr. Glavis is willing to, last night, to a fellow passenger on the Fulda, which arrived in New York only a few days ago. To secure the patent will be a trifling matter. To popularize the idea and involve the interest of all true Americans in it Mr. Spreckels suggests the plan of making a beautiful addition to the White House out of hardened blocks of sugar. The material, he asserts, will be less than one-half the expense of marble, will be guaranteed to be white and to hold its color perfectly, no matter in what kind of weather, and will be warranted to stand the wear of time for an indefinite period. To build an addition to the White House out of this hardened sugar would draw the attention of all the people, and only a comparatively small appropriation from Congress would be required to pay for the work. The plan includes the manufactur of the blocks partly out of beet sugar from Kansas, but wholly out of American sugar, and the employment of none but American sugar, and the employment of none but American tools and American workmen. The sugar king and Dr. Glavis both insist that while the proposition seems ludicrous and absurd on its face, they are entirely in earnest and propose to demonstrate the feasibility of the whole thing.

Patient: 'Well, doctor, what do you think of the swelling on the back of my neck?' Doctor: 'I don't like the looks of it, as it is on a very dangerous place; so my advice to you is to keep your eye on it.'

"Do you think high heels are injurous, doctor?" asked Miss Frenchslipper. "I know they are," replied the doctor, "on a mule. And they're more dangerous still when they come down. Keep away from 'em."

THE After-Supper Dance. Mr. Clay—'Beg pardin', but I wish you wouldn't breave so hard, Miss Haskins.' Miss Haskins—Do it 'noy yo'?' Mr. Clay—'Ya-as. Yo' done eat so much ice cream at d'table dat I's gotten' a cold in d' scruff ob my neck.'

BABY COULD: 'Grandpa I want to buy some candy, but I have no money. Grandpa Gould: 'Go to the candy store, my child, and offer the man a liberal sum for his candy, give him bonds for the amount based on the value of the candy, then double the issue of stock, sell one-half to other parties, pay the man his money, and you will own half the store. See?'

'HERE, sonny, hold my horse,' said a gentleman as he alighted from a carriage on Washington street the other day. 'Has he had his oats ter-day, sir?' asked the boy, as he hesitated. 'Had his oats? What has that to do with it?' inquired the gentleman in surprise. 'Well, yer see, sir, de las' time I hung on to a hoss he eat de straw hat off my head, and I only got a nickel and a lickin' when I got home. Put up a quarter an' I'll take de risk.' The boy got the quarter.

AN old dictionary gives the definition of 'vacation' as 'a rest from regular labor—rare.' The author of that orthographical collection ought to return and edit the personal columns on some live suburban paper for a time.

A PATHFINDER. Travis—'What, going into the Adirondacks without a guide?' DeSmith—'Of course. Do you suppose a man who has trotted around Boston for five years is going to lose his way in the Adirondacks? Not much.'

"DEAR," said a physician's wife as they sat in church, 'there is Mrs. Goldberg sitting in a draft.' 'Never mind,' said her husband, 'I will cash that draft later on.'

BARNUM'S JOKE.

Paul Smith Could Not Understand Why His Pepper was Half Peas.

Adirondack Correspondence of the Bridgeport Standard.

Paul Smith and Barnum are bosom friends. They spend many pleasant hours together. But the ever vivacious show-man must have his practical jokes, and even his friend Paul was made one of his victims last week.

These two celebrites met on the grand piazza after breakfast, and passing the usual morning greetings, Paul Smith said: "Well, friend Barnum, how do you find things here this year?"

"I am delighted as usual," replied the cheerful showman, "and I particularly admire your enterprise in erecting so many new cottages, and in introducing running water and steam heating into your big hotel."

"Glad to hear you like it," said Paul. "Praises from a man of your years and experience give me a new heart and courage. But I will thank you still more heartily if you will frankly tell me whenever you discover anything about my hotel that is not clean up to the highest mark. I am as proud of providing the very best of everything as you are in your big show."

"That's right," responded Barnum," "a true friend will always tell us our faults. And this reminds me that there is one thing that I noticed on your table which I thought I ought to mention to you. You know that most of our food and drinks are adulterated. Yours I have generally found fresh and pure, but the ground black pepper on your table is largely mixed with peas."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the old pioneer, "Why, I buy all my groceries from —— ——, the wholesale dealers in New York, and they stand high for goods of pure quality."

"Can't help it," said Barnum; "you investigate it, and I'll give you $100 if you don't find all your so-called 'pepper' is at least one-half peas."

"I will write my grocers to-day and give them fits. 'Half peas, indeed! That reminds me that thirty years ago I ran a boat from New York to St. Johns Canada. I often bought cargoes of peas from St. Johns and delivered them to the large coffee dealers in New York. But these grocers shall not swindle me."

Paul Smith's son immediately wrote a letter from his father's dictation, blowing his grocers sky-high for selling him adulterated pepper. He told them that P T Barnum declares it was at least one half peas, and threatened them with instant withdrawal of his patronage if they did not immediately send him a box of pure ground pepper without a single pea in it.

Three days afterward Paul received an answer from his grocers, in which they humbly asked his pardon. They confessed that there were peas in their pepper, even to the extent charged by Mr Barnum, but they cautioned him to look out for that merry old wag of a showman, and to carefully spell "Pepper" assuring him that the purest specimen in the market consisted of half P.'s.

Paul Smith was astounded, he took the joke in good part. In reply to the laughter and jeers of his guests, he said: "I am sorry friend Barnum is a temperance man; otherwise I would be glad to stand a basket or two of champagne."

"MR. ANSON, who is your favorite author?" asked a baseballist of the Chicago captain.

"Fielding," was the prompt reply.

WIFE—'The twentieth of February we shall celebraie our silver wedding. Don't you think we ought to kill the fat pig and have a feast?' Husband—'Kill the pig? I don't see how the unfortunate animal is to blame for what happened twenty-five years ago.'

'I HEAR that Harry has left his wife. What was the matter, I wonder? Couldn't he support her?' 'No; she was insupportable.'

'AND NOW, sir, let us see whether you know more about physical science than about the other subjects you have studied. What are the properties of heat?'

'One of the properties is to cause expansion.'

'Correct, sir; give me an illustration.'

'Oh, that's easy enough. In summer the sun, being hotter, causes the days to lengthen, sir.'

Two Paris loafers are reading a notice: 'Lost, a black poodle. One hundred francs reward.' One of them says to the other: 'You must take the one you stole yesterday.' 'But it is white.' 'You must say that it has turned white through grief.'

Swept by the Tide of Popularity

To the topmost pinnacle of success, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stands a shining proof of what genuine merit, backed by the living force of proven facts, can attain. The North and South American continents, Europe, Australia, the West Indies, Guatemala and Mexico have all contributed wide patronage and testimony of the most favorable kind—but unsolicited—to swell the reputation of this sterling remedy. Among the maladies for which the most convincing public and professional testimony proves that it is a benign curative, are chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervousness, debility, kidney and bladder complaints. It mitigates the infirmities of age, hastens convalescence, has a tendency to prevent ill consequences from exposure and exhaustion. Persons of sedentary habits and laborious occupations will find it an ever useful tonic.

Purchase of the Howard Iron Works.

"Forgeman" at Howard writes regularly and entertainingly to the Tyrone Daily Herald. His latest letter contains this important and cheerful information:

The grand results of the late election are beginning to crop out in this vicinity. The ironworks at this place consisting of forge and rolling mill has been purchased by John and Wm. Jenkins, the former of Milton and the latter of Bellefonte. Both of these gentlemen, who are brothers, are self made, and have had an eye to business from their youth up. This they inherited from their father, Mr. Wm. Jenkins, (now deceased) who was known all over the country as a leading business man. The necessary repairs are being rushed through as fast as possible and by next week the puddling department will start up, and as soon as possible the forge department will follow suit. This makes everybody happy along the line. Our merchants are filling their stores with goods, and wear their Sunday clothes every day, and think nothing of setting up the cigars to the boys. In all my speeches during the last campaign I told them that this would be the result if Harrison was elected, and I scarcely make a mistake in this direction. He was elected, and it resulted, that's all. I now take this opportunity to inform the people through the columns of the Herald that the Republican victory, four years hence, will be a bigger whopper than the other one.

Working Again at Johnstown.

Captain Hamilton, of Johnstown, has received orders from Governor Beaver to go ahead and employ as many men as necessary in clearing up the town as fast as the Board of Health make condemnations. Dr. Lee, of the Board, has not yet returned, but as he was known to be favorable to pushing the work, it is believed now that the intention is to put the whole town in a good sanitary condition. Just what the arrangements are is not known, but it is presumed that the Governor has made some arrangements to get the money.

In accordance with the directions from Governor Beaver to push the work of cleaning up the town, Captain Hamilton on Thursday hired every man he could find that wanted work. There will be no trouble in getting teams, but there is a scarcity of laborers, and it is likely that a considerable number will have to be engaged elsewhere if a large force is to be put on. As a consequence of the movement to push along the work there is much activity and everybody feels that about the proper thing has been done, although it would have been better to have hurried the work more months ago.

Domestic Arrangements for the Future.

Mrs. Corkran, of Shelbyville, Ill., has invented a dish-washing machine. This is only one of the many comforts that will crown the domestic life of the 20th century. The "hired girl" of that happier time will light the kitchen fire by pressing an electric button at the head of her bed, grind the coffee by starting an automatic mill, drop five cents in the slot and have the eggs and chops sent from the Grocers and Butchers Trust, catch the rolls as they jump off from the Bread Basket Underground Pneumatic supply train, and set the table by turning a crank. The only irregular thing in a house in the age of comfort by machinery will be the cat. The cat cannot be kept out of the milk by any device short of the guillotine.

Military Day Notes.

When the drum corps of the Fifth Regiment arrived on the fast line train Friday evening there were very few to meet it, for the reason that no previous notice of its arrival had been given through the medium of the press. It was, however, escorted up street by a portion of Company B. This drum corps seems to be almost perfect. It is in charge of the drum major. On Friday evening it was present at and supplied music for the ball held in the Armory.

—Mr. Geo. Gray, an employe in the Huntingdon Journal office, died, after an illness of about five weeks, with lung trouble and congestion of the liver, on Monday evening of this week. Deceased went to Huntingdon twenty years ago and has been employed in that office ever since. He was 42 years old, leaves a wife and four children, one son and three daughters, to mourn his loss.

—The receipts from the chicken and waffle supper given on Thursday evening under the auspices of the committee of ladies of the Presbyterian church exceeded $100. Mrs. Rankin and Mrs. Johnston deserve much credit for the success of the enterprise, and it augurs well for the future entertainments to be given by the different committees appointed for this purpose.

An Important Opinion.

Judge Stewart rendered an important decision at Chambersburg this week, in the matter of the motion of Cyrus H. Gordon for a reconsideration of the action of the court in refusing him a wholesale liquor license in January last. The application was based on recent decisions of the supreme court in Philadelphia, in the Pollard case and the case of the Prospect Brewing company. No remonstrance was filed against Gordon, nor was any objection made by anyone to the granting of the license, but the court refused the license because he did not think the place necessary for public accommodation. Judge Stewart held that the recent decisions did not decide that the lower court has no discretion in the matter. He says that the act of March 23, 1867, places all licenses on the same footing and makes the public accommodation a necessary condition for a license of any kind, except when there is a local legislation to the contrary, and that the court has the right to exercise discretion in the matter. The motion for a reconsideration was refused.

—Bellefonte was again slightly bored by Uncle Tom and his cabin on Thursday. Oh, no; it wasn't a cabin, but a tent, and that at least was somewhat novel.

Action of Waters in general upon the Human System.

We are agents for Centre county, for the celebrated Bedford Springs mineral water. Many persons in this county are now using this great remedy and all speak in highest praise of its worth. We have given you in a previous article quite a history of this great remedy, and we propose now to speak of the action of water in general upon the human system, to be followed by articles more particularly of the action of mineral waters, and the celebrated Bedford water in particular, what this water cures, and in fact all the information that can be desired upon this important subject.

The analysis of the water recently made by Dr. Henry Leffman, Analytical Chemist and Expert, is full and complete, and shows that the medicinal agents contained therein remain about the same as when analyzed by Dr. Church, in 1825, so far as the quality and quantity of magnesia, soda, lime and iron are concerned. He, however, calls special attention to the high degree of organic purity of the Magnesia Spring. There is no evidence of nitrates or nitrites or any fixed organic matter. The water retains its qualities unchanged for a long period of time.

Next to sunlight and heat, water is the greatest life-giving force in all nature. Man has been known to exist for weeks and months without food, but could not survive long without water. The human body is made up of millions of cells and these cells must be filled by water in order to uphold the ecomony of the human system in an approximate normal condition. All the organs of the body are influenced, and their action is either increased or diminished, according to the amount of fluid in the cell tissues. The whole organism is at once affected by the quality and quantity of fluid imbibed.

Physiologists teach that 58.5 of the human body is composed of water, and that no assimilation can take place by the kidneys or lungs without the free use of this agent. Neither can the process of digestion nor the absorption of food take place without first being diluted by water. Physiologically and chemically considered, water is therefore one of the most vital and important elements which enters into the composition of the system. By the action of this fluid on the blood all the tissues are nourished and all the fluids are formed, and all the processes of life take place. It gives mobility and activity to the muscles and nerves, and prevents their friction and premature decay. It is through the action of water on the bowels, kidneys, skin and lungs that all the worn-out and poisonous matter is removed from the system. Water is more rapidly absorbed by the blood than any other substance which can be introduced into the body, and it therefore more readily modifies morbid conditions with which it comes in contact. The action of water on the system is either that of a sedative, a stimulant, a cathartic, a diaphoretic or diuretic, according to the quality and quantity taken in a given time.

In our next, we will tell you about the action of Mineral waters in general upon the human system. While we are ready to supply you with Mineral water, do not forget that we also keep everything in the grocery line. Call and see us, at Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa.

The Art of Prosperity.

The Eureka man has been doing for some time past considerable advertising, and as I do not want to get all the good there is in this world, let my brother merchants take a word of advice from me. Some have said to me, "Well, you can afford it, it don't cost you anything." But listen. I do not get it for nothing. The Eureka Grocery store pays for every line of advertising it does, and I have not put a single column into the papers that has not paid two dollars for every one spent by myself or that would have to be spent by any other store in town that would attempt the same thing. And we are now just beginning to reap the full benefit of this labor.

Ask anyone at all acquainted with our business and they will tell you that it is constantly increasing; that it has constantly increased ever since we began, and that our success is due to newspaper advertising. I do not want to be the only merchant in town that can truthfully say that while all around us works are stopping, men are complaining that work is dull, that the Eureka is the only store whose business is not feeling the depression.

I am conducting three newspapers in this town and I can now speak from experience when I say to you that it will pay you to advertise in these papers; that it will help you much more than your wildest fancy dreams. I will set the Eureka advertisements into the remotest corner to give you the best place, or just the place you want.

People will read the Eureka articles any how, no matter where I place them. Now, believe me, "it is straight," I know it will do you good, and in the light of my own experience I advise you to try it, and if any of your customers want anything you have not got send them to the Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa., and we will supply them, and then look out. You may never get them back again, but if you don't we will blame that on Smith, that is if you are in the grocery trade.

Tell me not that advertising
Is at best an empty dream,
For its charms are more surprising
(and the Eureka man, who has tried it tells you plainly that its effects are far more astonishing.)
Than its dull old-fashioned practitioners could ever deem.

And which ever way thou turnest
Thou will find upon the whole,
Those who advertise in earnest
(Yes, we have only to glance at the most successful firms all over the country to see that those who do the thing properly)
Soonest reach the wished-for goal.

Would'st thou then a lesson borrow?
Would'st thou know the royal way?
Advertise then so to-morrow
(Don't let a little expense deter you; you are merely casting your bread upon the waters, and you will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that each to-morrow)
Finds thee richer than to-day.

Advertise then! No retreating!
Let the senseless crockers rave:
While your heart with hope is beating
(You will always find a lot of people in Bellefonte as everywhere else who are blind to their interests; but while you are making fame and fortune)
They will find oblivion's grave.

Printer's ink will lead the battle—
Printer's ink, the balm of life;
Printer's ink—no din, no rattle—
(No, it does it's work on the quiet; and in the great war of competition which is now going on in this town, when judiciously and thickly laid on, it always)
Leads the van against the strife.

Advertisers oft remind us
We can make success sublime,
Make our pile and leave behind us
(Exactly, that's just where it comes in. We not only expect to feather our own nest, but we at the Eureka hope to provide for the prosperity and well-being of generations yet unborn, and so leave behind us)
What defies the touch of time.

Seeing which, perchance another
Struggling man with weary brain,
Some non-advertising brother,
(A good example is always to be commended, especially in the matter of advertising; and many a struggling business man seeing the secret of our success)
May with wisdom try again.

Advertise then! Up and doing!
So advert a meaner fate,
And, the wiser course pursuing,
(You will find that you will soon be in a position to look the world in the face, if you will only)
Learn to advertise and wait!

Of course, there are many ways of advertising, but we are of the opinion that there is no form or method so effective as newspaper advertising. It goes right into the home, and it goes to stay. I do not suppose that an "add" of "New Spring Goods," put in the paper and never changed the year through would do the work it should. I never tried that method. Such an "add" would have to do its most effective work, at least I should think, in the first three months.

Personally, we have always looked upon such work as a public notice that here is a careless merchant. But if you will take hold of this matter, and give it the same attention that you would or should give any other important matter, it can not do otherwise than pay. I speak to you in the light of a year's experience and "I am giving it to you straight."

A Farmers' Picnic Exhibition in Centre County.

The Grangers and farmers of Centre county have, for several years, held a picnic near Centre Hall, in this county at which they have also on exhibition a large display of agricultural products, implements, &c. Every succeeding year they have seemed to make a greater effort than any preceding year and this year they are, we should judge by information sent out by their chairman, Leonard Rhone, going to have the "dandy" picnic of them all, to last four full days, and to begin on Tuesday the 17th day of September.

Now the Eureka man is interested in every thing that will advance the interest of the farmers of Centre county and we give to our customers, and the world generally, the facts about this monster gathering and display. Before you go to this immense gathering come to the Eureka Grocery store, High St., Bellefonte, Pa., and purchase anything you need that cannot be obtained there, if anything there be. Mr. Rhone in his circular says:

We invite public attention to the 16th Annual Pic-nic and Exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry of Centre county, to be held on the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th, of September, in the Fort Woods, at Centre Hall Station, on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad; easy of access from the south and east via Montandon, on the Philadelphia & Erie and Northern Central railways; from the north via Lock Haven, and the west via Tyrone & Bellefonte. Over 15,000 people were in attendance last year. Good accommodations, either by hotels or tents, with good boarding houses. A rare opportunity to manufacturers and farmers to exhibit stock and machinery.

Complete freight and other arrangements for accommodation of exhibitors and visitors.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC ARRANGEMENT.

Under an arrangement with William H. Joyce, General Freight Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, shipments for the exhibition held in Fort Woods will be charged regular current rates to Centre Hall, but all such shipments after the exhibition, if unsold and re-shipped within thirty days after the close of the exhibition, will be returned free to original point of shipment over any of the lines by which it came.

This free return will only be granted upon presentation of the original paid freight bill, and a certificate signed by the proper officer of the exhibition, to the effect that shipments are unsold exhibits.

In addition to the above mentioned privileges granted, arrangements have been made by which all camp equipage will be carried free. This is quite a concession to all exhibitors and no doubt will be duly appreciated.

Articles for exhibition must be consigned to the owner at Centre Hall station, Centre county, Pa., on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad. The freight must be prepaid. In marking goods do not omit any of the above directions.

All articles for exhibition should be shipped in good time so that they may reach Centre Hall the week before the pic-nic.

Upon receiving authority from exhibtors we will have goods unloaded and placed on grounds. A reasonable charge will, of course, be made for unloading and hauling goods from railroad siding; also for hauling to cars and reloading for shipment.

While the pic-nic management will not be responsible for breakage that may occur in unloading and reloading goods at the grove, yet the greatest care will be taken to prevent any damage to exhibits.

The Adams Express Company have their office at the railroad station, Centre Hall, only 20 rods from the grounds; also telegraph office. Telephone communication direct with the pic-nic grounds.

Arrangements will be made to lead out stock through the grove at suitable hours each day. Special hours will also be appointed for the running of traction engines. Machinery will be allowed to be driven by steam power and belting, but exhibitors must find their own belting and arrange for themselves steam power.

Exhibitors will be charged a small entrance fee, which will entitle them to the free use of telephone, at the following rate:

Class 1 articles, retail price $50 or less, entry fee	$ 50
Class 2 articles, retail price $50 to $100, entry fee	1 00
Class 3 articles, retail price above $100 entry fee	1 25

No exhibitor will be charged a less sum than 50 cents. Exhibitors having several articles of the same kind on exhibition will receive a reduction in charges so as to be satisfactory to exhibitors and managers. Allowances will also be made for large exhibitors at satisfactory rates.

Parties exhibiting pianos, organs, sewing machines and other articles requiring to be placed under cover, must either provide their own building, or will be charged with a separate canvas tent, which is the only shelter the committee can guarantee. Charges will be $3.50 for tent for week.

All exhibitors and others desiring tents for shelter and lodging can be supplied at $2.25 to $3.50 for the week, according to size of tent. No deductions will be made from these prices for less time, and all parties must find their own blankets and bedding. Those desiring tents should order early.

A first-class boarding house on the grounds; charges reasonable.

Two hotels, one on either side of the grounds.

Exhibitors of large machines should be on hand if possible by Saturday, the 14th of September. Exhibitors will be allowed to bring their own tents if preferred.

Exhibitors of live stock will be admitted free, but exhibitors will be charged a nominal price for hay and straw.

Those coming from south and east should ship by way of Montandon on the P. & E. railroad; those from the west by way of Tyrone; those from the north by way of Lock Haven.

Excursion rates over the leading railroads. Rates will be published later.

Admission FREE.

Now we have given you all the facts we have on hand about this great affair, and we shall keep you posted as arrangements are further perfected. I see that Mr. Rhone promises to give particulars about railroad rates later and we will then give them to you. The Eureka man is in doubt as to whether he will be able to hold on—to Smith while all this fun is going on he is such an enthusiast on farming. But if you will only rush in and keep him busy he may lose his head and forget the date of the entertainment. That is our best hold, and we know you will help us out, for you would never miss Smith in that immense crowd; and after it is all over and you have had your "jamboree," then continue to visit the Eureka Grocery store, High St., Bellefonte, Pa., where there is the largest stock of groceries to be found in the county and sold at the most reasonable prices. Remember Smith never loses a sale. Come and see him.

SPICY NOTES.

Wafted to us on Autumn Breezes from Houserville.

The pastor of the Reformed church at Houserville had announced that he would preach a harvest home sermon, but was thrown from his horse and seriously hurt, so he could not be there. The church was especially decorated for the occasion and the congregation was large.

The Misses Garman and Mayes moved their thresher to the barn of W. H. Tibbens to do some threshing, but the man employed there thought it was only moved to the barn for repairs.

Anybody wanting fresh cider should call on Miss J. A. Tibbens.

G. S. Keller is the boss horse trader. He got a dandy the last time. Anybody wanting a fast trotter can call on him.

R. H. Houser caught 72 eels this season. If anyone can beat that we would like to hear from him through this paper.

John Dale has the boss field of corn, the best the writer has seen for years.

Mr. Boyd Cowher can be seen traveling from Bunker Hill to Houserville factory every day with his dinner bucket The fact that he has a bran new wife has something to do with it.

A young gentleman from Harts Grove would be much obliged to Mr. Philip Wirts if he would tie his dogs on Saturday evening.

Charles Shuey is briskly engaged in making wine. He has several kegs in good condition. His house will now be a very pleasant place of resort.

Rev. G. P. Sarvis, pastor of the M. E. church of Rock Forge, preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday, his text being from St. Luke 12th chapter and 32d verse—"Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

George Lutz says it is a boy and he calls him George Sullivan Lutz, and he thinks he can soon drive the cows.

James Bodle is the boss stack builder—aren't he, Bill?

William Hoy, of Benner township owned a cow which was so unfortunate as to choke on an apple. But the cow didn't die. Doctor Tibbens was sent for but he was unsuccessful in removing the apple. Doctor William Dale next attempted it and was quite successful. The cow is now ready to swallow another apple.

George, there are six days in the week. Why, then, do you haul flowers on Sunday?

Perhaps it is Imagination.

This is an age which seems to be peculiarly fruitful in new plans and strange devices to accomplish everything and to cure human ills. Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton has brought from Paris a new device for the treatment of the nerves. It is a little cherry box, about five inches square, above which projects two shafts, one within the other, sleeve and arm fashion. On each shaft is balanced a black bar nine inches long, an inch wide and a quarter inch thick, edge up. By clock work in the box these ebony arms or bars are made to revolve in opposite directions. Six little round mirrors are placed on each side of each bar. The patient is placed in a chair in a dark room, facing the machine. An electric light, or any bright light, is concentrated on the black arms of the machine by a convex mirror placed behind the patient and then the arms are set a whirling. The patient watches them whirl. The motion and the flashing lights are said to operate on the nerves through the eyes. Dr. Hamilton said he had patients put to sleep by this means and some extraordinary cures accomplished. The explanation of the effect of the whirling arms and flashing lights is that they change the habit of the brain. The effect is analogous to that produced by soft music on a nervous or irritable man. That may all be, but we dont believe any such a deceptive instrument as that could have any effect on our nerves.

Signs of a Hard Winter,

"We are going to have an early fall and a long, cold, hard winter," remarked a farmer on Saturday.

"How do you figure that out?" he was asked.

"In the first place," the farmer replied "just try the skin of any of your fruit. You will find your apples and peaches and grapes, and all of your fruit, for that matter, which is home-grown, with a thicker and tougher skin than you have seen for several years. This is one of the indications. That is the way nature takes care of her products. Last winter apples and other fruits were so thin-skinned and tender that it was hard to gather them without bruising them, if you will remember, and we had a mild winter.

Corn is another of nature's sign boards The ears this year are protected by thickness and stronger husks than I have ever seen before for years, and talking with farmers from different parts of the country I find it the same way. Wheat and rye straw are tougher, hay is wirier and seed pods are better protected than usual. These are old farmer's signs, and they are good ones, because they don't come from any moon-planting superstitions but from actual observation year after year by class of men whose interests lie in keeping close watch of all of nature's moods. Then another sign of a hard winter is the heavy crop of corn or wheat. You can just put it down that whenever there is an unusually heavy grain crop, there is going to be a hard winter.

Y. M. C. A. Subjects.

On Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. met in Association hall. Meeting at that regular supper hour, they were treated to a very fine feast prepared by Mrs. Rees, the excellent wife of Mr. G W Rees, the secretary. The feast was quite elaborate and was in honor of J W Gephart, Esq., it being the first meeting held since that gentleman's return from Europe. The menu consisted of a succession of savory surprises in the way of chicken, waffles, coffee, rolls, preserves, cake, ice cream, grapes, bananas, etc, etc. We are sure that Mr. and Mrs. Rees deserve the hearty acknowledgements of the Board of Directors for their thoughtful kindness and culinary skill.

THE GYMNASIUM

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Association—particularly in the business meeting which followed the spread—the subject of the proposed gymnasium was prominently considered. The demand for such an institution is acknowledged and the way to most speedily establish it is the query. There is a fund of $175 to start upon. But the building now on the Association grounds is not considered suitable for the purpose. To build and equip a suitable structure will of course involve expense. A committee was appointed consisting of Dr. W S Zeller and Profs. James R Hughes and D M Lieb who will secure plans, prepare a series of suggestions and estimate cost, for the approval of the Board at the next meeting. The additional cost for a thoroughly equipped gymnasium it is believed will be provided for by the young men who are most intimately associated with it. We will inform the public further on this subject in the future.

MEETING NEXT FRIDAY EVENING.

After the devotional exercises next Friday evening there will be an Association meeting the object of which is of considerable importance because it is for the purpose of changing the constitution. The constitution of the Bellefonte Association differs from that adopted for the Associations in general in the reading which makes it "Christian Protestant" where it should read Evangelical. The change must be proposed and afterwards ratified by Association meetings before the legal proceedings are instituted. Hence the necessity for a general attendance of the members next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Action of Mineral Waters in General.

In our article of yesterday we told you about the action of water in general upon the human system we now propose to have a word to say about the action of Mineral waters in general upon the human system. Mineral water, in the true acceptation of the term, is one which by virtue of the ingredients contained therein acts upon the human system as a medicine. The true origin of mineral springs is still a mystery to philosophers. Most writers, however, hold to the opinion that mineral springs derive their flow from the fall of rain, or are the result of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. The solvent power of water is unequalled by any other fluid, and no rocks, however compact, can resist its action; it will penetrate every crevice and fissure of the earth. Water falling from the clouds and passing deep down into the earth filled with mineral rocks and beds, its solvent power absorbs and and takes up the various salts in all their freshness and chemical purity, and it again bursts forth from Nature's labratory to restore failing health and wasted energy, and when thus loaded with mineral agents it stimulates the arterial and venous currents, opens the pores of the skin, increases the flow of urine, washes out the alimentary canal, and gives tone, mobility and energy to the whole body, and is highly essential in the process of digestion, of absorption and secretion.

In our next article we will speak of the action of the celebrated Magnesia water from the Magnesia Spring of Bedford upon the human system, this is the water that we keep for sale at the Eureka Grocery store, High St., Bellefonte, next door to post office.

Fresh groceries always on hand. Call and see us.

Action of Waters in general upon the Human System.

We are agents for Centre county, for the celebrated Bedford Springs mineral water. Many persons in this county are now using this great remedy and all speak in highest praise of its worth. We have given you in a previous article quite a history of this great remedy, and we propose now to speak of the action of water in general upon the human system, to be followed by articles more particularly of the action of mineral waters, and the celebrated Bedford water in particular, what this water cures, and in fact all the information that can be desired upon this important subject.

The analysis of the water recently made by Dr. Henry Leffman, Analytical Chemist and Expert, is full and complete, and shows that the medicinal agents contained therein remain about the same as when analyzed by Dr. Church, in 1825, so far as the quality and quantity of magnesia, soda, lime and iron are concerned. He, however, calls special attention to the high degree of organic purity of the Magnesia Spring. There is no evidence of nitrates or nitrites or any fixed organic matter. The water retains its qualities unchanged for a long period of time.

Next to sunlight and heat, water is the greatest life-giving force in all nature. Man has been known to exist for weeks and months without food, but could not survive long without water. The human body is made up of millions of cells and these cells must be filled by water in order to uphold the ecomony of the human system in an approximate normal condition. All the organs of the body are influenced, and their action is either increased or diminished, according to the amount of fluid in the cell tissues. The whole organism is at once affected by the quality and quantity of fluid imbibed.

Physiologists teach that 58.5 of the human body is composed of water, and that no assimilation can take place by the kidneys or lungs without the free use of this agent. Neither can the process of digestion nor the absorption of food take place without first being diluted by water. Physiologically and chemically considered, water is therefore one of the most vital and important elements which enters into the composition of the system. By the action of this fluid on the blood all the tissues are nourished and all the fluids are formed, and all the processes of life take place. It gives mobility and activity to the muscles and nerves, and prevents their friction and premature decay. It is through the action of water on the bowels, kidneys, skin and lungs that all the worn-out and poisonous matter is removed from the system. Water is more rapidly absorbed by the blood than any other substance which can be introduced into the body, and it therefore more readily modifies morbid conditions with which it comes in contact. The action of water on the system is either that of a sedative, a stimulant, a cathartic, a diaphoretic or diuretic, according to the quality and quantity taken in a given time.

In our next, we will tell you about the action of Mineral waters in general upon the human system. While we are ready to supply you with Mineral water, do not forget that we also keep everything in the grocery line. Call and see us, at Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa.

ON THE DOORSTEP.

EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN.

The conference meeting through at last,
We boys around the vestry waited,
To see the girls come tripping past
Like snowbirds, willing to be mated.

Not braver he that leaps the wall
By level musket-flashes litten,
Than I, who stepped before them all,
Who longed to see me get the mitten.

But no; she blushed, and took my arm!
We let the old folks have the highway,
And started toward the Maple Farm
Along a kind of lovers' by-way.

I can't remember what we said,
'Twas nothing worth a song or story,
Yet that rude path by which we sped
Seemed all transformed and in a glory.

The snow was crisp beneath our feet,
The moon was full, the fields were gleaming:
By hood and tippet sheltered sweet,
Her face with youth and health was beaming.

The little hand outside her muff—
O sculptor, if you could but mould it!—
So lightly touched my jacket-cuff,
To keep it warm I had to hold it.

To have her with me there alone—
'Twas love and fear and triumph blended.
At last we reached the foot-worn stone
Where that delicious journey ended.

The old folks, too, were almost home;
Her dimpled hand the latcher fingered,
We heard the voices nearer come,
Yet on the doorstep still we lingered.

She shook her ringlets from her hood,
And with a "Thank you, Ned," dissembled
But yet I knew she understood
With what a daring wish I trembled.

A cloud passed kindly overhead,
The moon was slyly peeping through it,
Yet hid its face, as if it said,
"Come, now or never! do it! do it!"

My lips till then had only known
The kiss of mother and of sister,
But somehow fell upon her own
Sweet, rosy, darling mouth—I kissed her.

Perhaps 'twas boyish love, yet still,
O listless woman, weary lover;
To feel once more that fresh, wild thrill
I'd give—but who can live youth over?

Blood Poison

Is very liable to follow contact of the hands or face with what is known as poison ivy, especially in hot weather or if the body is perspiring freely. The trouble may subside for a time, only to appear in aggravated form when opportunity offers. The great purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla thoroughly eradicate every trace of poison from the blood, as the cures it has accomplished conclusively show. It also cures scrofula, salt rheum and all other affections arising from impure or poisoned blood.

Improvements to the Schools.

When the teachers and pupils assemble in the stone school house next Wednesday they will find that some changes and improvements have taken place. In two of the rooms down stairs entire new ceilings have been placed and in all the rooms, upstairs and down, fresh calcimine will give a beautiful and cheerful appearance. A new coat of tar also covers the roof.

A change in the course of reading has been made in the line of modern progress. Pupils in the lower intermediate grades will read Æsop's Fables, which is a model in language and very interesting, serving to keep their attention devoted to the subject. Montgomery's Life of Franklin and other excellent literature will supplement the reading in such grades as those taught by Miss Shortlidge and Prof. Harrison. The reading of the High School pupils will extend over a wide range of literature. Of course all this supplementary classical reading will be provided by the Board and will not entail any expense to the pupils.

When we come to consider that the School Board, like other departments of the borough government, has had to meet and overcome debt, the progress it has made in the way of improving the buildings and the schools is very commendable. It is most happily situated in having such an excellent superintendent and principal of city schools as Prof. Lieb, who while willing to adopt anything which has been thoroughly and advantageously tested, is nevertheless endowed with sufficient conservatism to keep the schools in a condition of certain and healthful progress.

"THE KING'S TOUCH."

In England, two centuries ago, popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all bilious attacks, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea and kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood-purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung-scrofula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial. THE HAY FEVER SEASON.

July, August, September.

"At this season, when life offers the greatest attractions and the most delightful resources to persons whose soundness of body permits out-of-door exercise and amusements, multitudes are debarred from the joys of summer by hay fever, one of the most exasperating, wearisome and depressing ills to which humanity is subject—obscure, inexplicable, descending on a given date like an invisible blow of fate. The sufferers from hay fever have looked in vain for any trustworthy remedy. Many of them, however, have looked in vain because they have been ignorant of Ely's Cream Balm, an admirable remedy for hay fever in all its forms. Agreeable in the use, entirely devoid of any unpleasant after-effects, this Cream Balm quickly allays inflammation and secures that relief for which the sufferer has longed in vain."—From The Christian Union, N. Y. City, July 18, 1889.

Swift's Specific cured me of ugly and very painful boils or risings. I had 23 on my back and neck at one time and a great many on my body. I took S S S and two bottles cured me. This was five years ago, and have had no boils since.

W M Miller, Arlington, Tex.

W H Wight, of Rogers, Ark., a prominent farmer and stock grower, says that Swift's Specific cured him of tetter of 20 years' standing. Of course in that time he had a great amount of treatment; and says the wonder is that he did not scratch the flesh from his bones. S. S. S. cured him quick and permanently.

THE continued use of mercury mixtures poisons the system, causes the bones to decay, and brings on mercurial rheumatism. The use of S. S. S. forces impurities from the blood, gives a good appetite and digestion, and builds up the whole human frame. Send to Swift Specific Company, Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. for Treatise on Blood Diseases.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC COMPANY, Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., offer a reward of one thousand dollars to any one who will find by analysis a particle of mercury, iodide of potash, or other poisonous subtance in S. S. S.

Special dispatches from Watsontown to the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin say: The most disastrous wreck experienced on this division of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad for a long time, occurred here soon after noon today. By reason of a broken axle on a car of a Western bound freight train, fourteen cars heavily laden with sugar, fertilizers and general merchandise, were piled up in a shapeless mass between Third and Fourth streets, completely blocking the road. Trains, however, have not been obstructed, having the use of the car factory siding in passing the wreck. Superintendent Westfall, assisted by Supervisor Buck, with the Watsontown work train and the Sunbury wreck train, were on the ground early and they succeeded in clearing the track this evening. No one was hurt in the accident. The loss to the company will be a heavy item.

WRECK NEAR JERSEY SHORE.

JERSEY SHORE, Sept. 6—About 4.30 this afternoon train No. 83 on the Beech Creek Railroad was wrecked at Waddle's brickyard, a short distance below Jersey Shore station. The accident was caused by a broken axle. Eleven cars loaded with bituminous coal were thrown across the track and are a total wreck. Over one hundred men were put to work under Superintendent Palmer's direction to clear the track, and it is expected that it will take the greater part of the night to remove the wreck. None of the trainmen were injured. The passengers on the West and East bound trains were transferred at the wreck. The scene of the accident was visited by over two hundred citizens of Jersey Shore during the evening. The cars wrecked had a capacity of sixty thousand pounds each, and the coal was thickly strewn over the track.

About Old People.

The other day a Bellefonte gentleman attended a funeral of an aged person in this county. He said that at the funeral he counted six persons who were between 85 and 90 years of age. It is a community in which persons live to a great age.

He said moreover, in regard to the habits of the people of that section, that he knows a majority of them do now and always have eaten pie regularly from two to three times every day. It is always on their tables. All of them are and always have been coffee drinkers, using the beverage regularly.

This fact leads the gentleman to doubt the assertion made so frequently by physicians that pie and coffee, when much indulged in, are injurious. That community is more noted for the longevity of its inhabitants than any other in the county. Now, dear reader, don't understand us to advocate the consumption of vast quantities of pie, but we merely present the above as indisputable facts.

Much Like Angels.

There are some signs that the fall girl will look more like an angel than did the summer girl. The bustle, for instance, has disappeared and that certainly adds to the similarity which she bears to the angelic creature. But it is not the greatest point of resemblance. Now that the cool weather is coming, puffs on the upper part of the sleeves and arrangements of the dress on the shoulders are developing still larger proportions and look more like the ruffled feathers of angels wings than anything else and carry out the idea of what we imagine an angel looks like.

Church Dedication.

The beautiful and spacious new Catholic church, of this place, is to be dedicated on Sunday, the 13th of October. The services on that occasion will be grand and imposing. The church will not be completed till next year, but it is sufficiently far advanced to be used for worship. The services will be of intense interest, conducted by some of the distinguished prelates of that church, and an admission of one dollar will be charged.

Colonel Bayard's Appointment.

On Saturday Col. George Bayard received official notice of his appointment as special Aid-de-Camp on the staff of the Chief Marshall of Pennsylvania at Gettysburg, September 11 and 12. The chief marshall is General Gregg and Col. Bayard will be an efficient Aide. We congratulate him on the appointment.

—W H Myers, formerly Superintendent of the Bedford division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been made Superintendent of the Belvidere Division, to take the place of Frank Ellmaker who was recently transferred. His old place has been filled by the appointment of A P Gest, who has been Assistant Engineer of the New York Division, and was formerly a Supervisor on this division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Her Opinion of Europe.

A young lady of Germantown, who has been spending the summer in traveling in Europe, thus wrote a few days ago to a friend in West Chester:

"So far our journey has been wonderfully grand, and I have enjoyed everything to its utmost.

"Paris is a fine city, but give me America for a home. This is truly a Godless nation; one must turn one's head away in shame from sights on the street fit for no one to see; their worship is mummery. All through Germany, Switzerland and France the women do all the work; they sweep streets, light the lamps, carry their loads of wood on their backs and load themselves with bricks and mortar. The men, what do they do? Why, they dress in uniforms, smoke, drink, gamble and indulge in all that is sinful. The women support the nation.

"I despise the country truly. No wonder they build their fine cathedrals, and keep up such fine parks and gardens, and open such fine art galleries, when they give the laborers but three cents an hour! And we silly Americans come here and spend the money. I really do not think Paris or any of these fine places would be what they are if the Americans would stay at home. I have no love for either the French or the German nation."

The Young Soldiers.

Nature smiled not on the blue uniformed soldiers of the National Guard who made Bellefonte their rendezvous on Saturday. The day was cloudy, gloomy and rainy; the ground was soggy and wet and the air had a chilly, disagreeable feeling. So none of the outdoor sports could be had and the military manoeuvres were out of the question.

Around the outside of the court of justice, under the trees and inside the enclosure the soldiers lingered. A few sports such as tossing one another in a blanket were witnessed by the spectators who came to see what was going on. Good humor prevailed. In the evening the ladies interested themselves in behalf of the soldiers and sold ice cream and cake, the affair assuming quite a festival character. So the day and evening passed away.

Grangers' Interstate Picnic.

MECHANICSBURG, Pa., September 6.—At a meeting of the managers held here to-day it was decided that the seventeenth annual grangers' interstate picnic exhibition, under the auspices of the National Grange Patrons of Husbandry and state granges of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, will be held at Williams grove, beginning August 24, 1890, and continuing six days. Already reports show that 500 tents have been engaged by families for the next meeting and the demand for exhibit space is greater than ever before. The management have decided to add several acres of new ground for the benefit of exhibitors, and many new buildings and other attractive features will be added.

—For several weeks past a couple of very large fish have been seen in the Juniata river, near Newport, one of which is believed to be some six feet in length and the other somewhat smaller. They are supposed to be sturgeon that came up the river with the flood. So far they have eluded all efforts to capture them.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

W. E. Gray, Esq.

The young man whom the Republicans, last week, nominated for district attorney has about him numerous qualities of superior excellance. He has manifested a great deal of courage and determination in whatever he undertook to do. He is a son of one of the prominent and most excellent citizens of Centre county, but most of his progress and position were achieved by his own individual exertions. The qualities which he possesses in such a high degree usually enable him to excel.

We first heard him the year he graduated at the State College. There were in the class that year four or five other young men, some of them of considerabe ability. We listened to all the orations, and remember well that the one delivered by Mr. Gray excelled in composition as well as in the manner in which it was delivered. He afterwards read law in Bellefonte and also graduated at the Albany Law School, where he too took quite a high grade. His experience has been fully as extensive as that of any of the young lawyers at the bar, and his ability cannot be questioned.

The facts which we have narrated—and that they are facts we can prove by our own individual knowledge—show he deserves the recognition of your votes, as it is the first time he has asked for or been nominated to an office.

A Fire on Sunday Night.

A bright light was visible to the people as they went home from church on Sunday night. Some people thought that a house was on fire and others thought it to be caused by fire which was less destructive. On inquiry, we learn that a house was destroyed by the flames: The house was that owned by a Mr. Ryman located one half mile back from the road leading between Curtin and Milesburg.

A lamp exploded and started the fire. The house was occupied by a tenant whose name we hear is Ellery Harvey. Whether he lost any furniture or not we have not heard, but if any of it was burned the loss will fall on him, as his insurance had expired. The building was insured.

At the Age of Ninety.

The great interest in that venerable lady, Mrs. Ruth Armor, which all her many friends entertain for her, was well exemplified on Saturday, that being the ninetieth anniversary of her birth-day. During that day she received numerous calls and showers of congratulations. The largest number of her friends called on her in the evening and her home presented quite an animated and cheerful scene. They were glad to do her honor, and, of course numerous substantial tokens of esteem in the form of gifts were presented to her. All rejoiced to see that she was so well in body and cheerful in spirits and are glad of the indications that she will live many years longer.

—The sovereign grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will convene at Columbus, Ohio, September 10 to 22. This meeting will undoubtedly bring together the largest assemblage of the order ever before gathered on a similar occasion. It is expected that 15,000 members, including a large number of Patriarchs Militant, will be in attendance. The parades and public ceremonies which will extend through the week will be highly interesting to the public as well as to members of the order.

—A puddler named Michael Furrey was drowned in the canal at Northumberland on Wednesday afternoon. He was taking a bath near the steamboat landing and was an expert swimmer. While floating on his back he was struck in the head by an empty canal boat that was coming up the canal. He passed under the boat and was struck by the second boat and disappeared in the water opposite James' house. The body was recovered in about half an hour.

—'Now,' said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip. 'Let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. "A DIRECT practical experiment in a laundry has proved to me that the 'IVORY,' tested against a certain well known brand of "laundry soap, has the same amount of cleansing power and one and "two-thirds the lasting capacity. That is, the Ivory Soap will do one "and two-thirds times the work of the soap against which it was "tested. I therefore consider the IVORY a very good laundry soap."

JOHN W. LANGLEY,
Professor of Chemistry, University of Michigan.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Grape Cure Establishment.

Mr. Speer, of New Jersey, whose wines have such a well merited and extended reputation all over this country and Europe, for their age and excellent properties in cases of sickness, and are so famous for their curative properties, is about to build a large Hotel or Grape Cure Eslishment on one corner of his vineyard. The house will accommodate five or six hundred guests who are to have the privilege of roaming among the vines in the morning to pluck the ripe grapes and breakfast on them while the cool dew is yet on.

FOR CHICKEN CHOLERA.

ABOUT MOSQUITOES.

Here's a Little Experiment You Can Try If You Wish.

Washington Star.

Three or four men were sitting on the piazza of a seaside cottage smoking. It was evening. The stars were as thick in the sky as freckles on a red-headed girl's face. The waves came in on the beach swish-swash-swosh just as they have done ever since the second day of the creation.

More piercing than the song of the waves were the notes, and more multitudinous than the stars of heaven the number of the mosquitoes that haunted that piazza, and every one of them was "looking for blood." The men had ceased smoking for fun. They now puffed their cigars to keep the mosquitoes away.

"Something funny about mosqitoes," said one rather absent-mindedly.

"Yes, rather," was the drawling reply.

"Funny how much blood it takes to fill one of them up."

"No, but honest, now; do you know that if a mosquito'd get his bill down into your hand he can't pull it out while you hold your breath?"

Don't believe it.,'

"It is true, however, for I have tried it."

"Bet you the cigars a mosquito can take his bill out at any time he wants to do it, and we will try it right here. Is it a go?"

'It is, and I'll let them try."

A lamp was lighted, the cigars put out, and all waited. In less than a minute a mosquito had placed himself on Tom's hand and begun operations.

'Now,' said Tom, and placed the fore-finger of his other hand down close to the mosquito. It did not budge. He placed his nail against the abdomen of the insect and whirled it around. Still it remained fixed.

'You can do it every time,' said Tom, as he killed the mosquito and drew a long breath.

It is a fact. Go and try it.

Prepared by a combination, proportion and process peculiar to itself, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

COL. ELLSWORTH.

A WAR SONG OF 1861.

Entering the traitor's city with his soldiers true,
Leading up the zouave column, fixed beneath his view;
See, a rebel flag is floating on yon building tall!
Spake he, while his dark eye glistens, "Boys, that flag must fall."

CHORUS—Strike, freemen, for the Union! sheathe your swords no more
While remains in arms a traitor on Columbia's shore!

Quickly from its proud position that base flag was borne,
Trampled 'neath the feet of freeman circling Ellsworth' foam;
See him bear it down the landing past the traitor's door;
Hear him groan, "O God, they've shot him! Ellsworth is no more!"

First to fall, thou youthful martyr, hopeless was thy fate!
Haste me on as thy avengers from thy native state!
Speed me on through town and city, not for wealth nor fame,
But because we love the Union and our Ellsworth's name!

Traitors' hands shall never sunder that for which you allied!
Hear the oath our lips now utter, thou our nation's pride!
By the hope of yon bright heaven, by the land we love,
By the God who reigns above us, we'll avenge thy blood.

The Little Major.

At his post the little major
Dropped his drum that battle day,
On the field all stained with crimson,
Through the battle night he lay,
Crying "Oh! for love of Jesus,
Grant me just one little boon;
Can you, friends, refuse me water?
Can you, when I die so soon?
CHORUS—Crying: "Oh! for love of Jesus,
Grant me just one little boon;
Can you, friends, refuse me water?
Can you when I die so soon?"

There were none to hear or help him,
All his friends were early fled,
Save the forms outstretched around him
Of the dying and the dead.
Hark! they come, there falls a footstep,
How it makes his heart rejoice;
They will help, Oh, they will save him;
When they hear his fainting voice.

Now the lights are flashing 'round him,
And he hears a loyal word.
Strangers they whose lips pronounce it,
Yet he trusts his voice is heard.
It is heard. Oh, God, forgive them,
They refuse his dying prayers.
"Nothing but a wounded drummer,"
So they said and left him there.

See, the moon that shone above him,
Veils her face as if in grief;
And the stars are sadly weeping,
Shedding dewdrops of relief,
Yet, to die by friends forsaken,
With his last request denied,
This he felt his keenest anguish,
When, at morn, he passed and died.

ATONEMENT.

Prince-like, above the virgins sod,
There grew a stalk of Golden Rod.

A poet low-bowed with worldly care
Passed by and saw it blooming there.

With joy at finding richest gem
He plucked it from its stately stem.

But scarcely done, in idle greed
He repented of the vandal deed.

"Behold, 'twill now soon fade away,
Unplucked 'twould bloom full many a day."

The Flower Queen saw the repentent tears
And straightway calms his sighs and fears.

"To atone for this you shall," she says.
"Attune your verses to its praise."

Obedient to the Queen's behest,
He sang the song as he knew best.

Its notes fell on the pulsing main
And earth-wide grew the glad refrain.

Till all mankind were mad to see
This theme of the poet's minstrelsy.

The Village Sexton.

His locks were gray, although his frame
Retained its customary vigor;
He lived and died unknown to fame,
Save locally as our grave-digger.
While others aimed and strove to rise,
His avocation downward tended,
And lives of others, in his eyes,
Possessed no value until ended.

For spirits he expressed no fear,
Or rather only had a relish
For certain kinds supposed to cheer,
Not those that ghostly tales embellish.
Cremation was a shame, he said,
A burning shame when once 'twas started;
He'd never stoop to earn his bread
By urning thus the dear departed.

So passed his life in lowly toil,
Until on one eventful morning,
He shuffled off this mortal coil
Without premonitory warning.
With pick and shovel he that day
Was opening a grave intended
To hold a friend; the sides gave way:
He'd holed himself, his life was ended.

VICTORIOUSLY ENDED.

The Base Ball Season in Bellefonte Closes with the Greatest Triumph Yet Achieved.

There has not been a game this season in which the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. nine has entered the contest with an expectation of winning. But in each instance they have been agreeably surprised at the weakness of their opponents.

For instance, it was beyond calculation that they would do anything more than give Philadelphia a good game; their first victory in Altoona was a surprise and the second game there was the only one played that was reasonably close. When Altoona came on Thursday it was a nine gathered from the choicest material all over Blair county, and this of itself made a majority of the spectators and players believe that they had come with the determination to win. But the game proved to be ridiculously one-sided. There were about five hundred people present to witness the game. Bellefonte was compelled to go into the game before one of their best men arrived which was discouraging, and after his arrival they played with more confidence.

The visitors went first to the bat, and in the first inning scored, Bellefonte doing the same. The second inning was marked by short, quick playing and neither side scored. The third inning was a very costly one to Bellefonte. The visitors obligingly knocked several flies into the field, but the fielders fumbled every one of them. On the other hand a sky scraper sent into left field was splendidly caught by Byron Woodcock.

It was in the fourth inning that McLean arrived and the success of the game turned at once. Quigley made a splendid throw from the right field which did execution at the home plate. Houck caught a fly while in the field and afterwards succeeded in getting away around to third on passed balls. He and Quigley reached home and now the score, which before was 5 to 1 in Altoona's favor, changed to the more encouraging figures of 5 to 3, Altoona omitting to score.

In the fifth inning Altoona didn't even reach first base and Bellefonte made five runs. McKnight did some excellent slugging in his inning Score, 8 to 5 for Bellefonte.

While Bellefonte was in the field in the sixth Lee Woodcock made one play more skillfully than we have ever noticed before. Ellenberger was attempting to catch a fly which came down near him, but as luck would have it, it slipped through his fingers. It didn't reach the ground, though, for Woodcock's hands were in the way and there it rested. It showed wonderful quickness on Woodcock's part. They batted the big pitcher, O'Hearn, all over the field and scored seven runs. Altoona put a new man, McIntosh, behind the bat, but he was no improvement. Score 15 to 6.

Both sides made their first two base hits during the 7th inning, McKnight doing it for Bellefonte. Bellefonte increased its score to 21, while Altoona scored only once. This so discouraged Altoona that they gave up the game—21 to 7.

What impressed us with Altoona was the slowness and lack of animation in the players. Their big pitcher, O'Hearn, throws a very swift ball, but none of their catchers could hold his balls.

Houck distinguished himself as usual by splendid base running. He can run as well on his nose and ear as on his feet.

Ellenberger pitched during the entire game and was as fresh at the end as he was when he commenced.

In the youthful and active shortstop, Ritz, Altoona has as excellent a player as their is in their nine.

Altoona complained that they were guyed too much.

A feature of the game was Altoona's kicking, which was commenced as soon as they fell behind.

The score is as follows:

To Our Neighbors.

The question is often asked by our neighbors, "Where I wonder, can I get a pure stimulant?" It is a fact that there is scarcely a roof under which you cannot find a stimulant of some kind. Old people prolong life with it; sick people have it to sustain life; well people may and do use it to make life more enjoyable, but where will we advise our readers to buy it? We learn from the most reliable source that Max Klein is one of the most popular and respected citizens of this country. At his home his word is taken unhesitatingly. To him we can cheerfully recommend our readers for anything in the liquor line. He authorizes us to say that for $1.00 you can buy one quart of six year old rye, or six quarts for $5.00. His "Silver Age" at $1.50 per quart is without doubt the best whiskey know. Send for price list and complete catalogue. His address is, Max Klein, 82 Federal St., Allegheny, Pa.

—"Mrs. Dr. Frank, of Philadelphia, had a horse run away at Old Fort," says the Centre Democrat. Don't express yourself in such a wretchedly ungrammatical way, young man. She didn't have the horse run away at all. It ran without her consent or permission. We heard a lady correcting a small child on this very point the other day and advise the lady to give a few lessons to the Centre Democrat editor.

Card of Thanks.

If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expression of gratitude which come to him daily from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL EVENT.

A Church Social at the Residence of C M Bower, Esq., Takes the Form of a Farewell to Rev. M O Noll.

HE RECEIVES A SUBSTANTIAL TOKEN OF ESTEEM.

On Friday evening there must have been a hundred people, old and young, who assembled at the spacious and beautiful home of C M Bower, Esq., at the extreme east end of Linn street. It was the occasion of a sociable of the Reformed church, the ladies of that congregation doing the honors of the occasion. But it was on a scale much larger than usual, and the people of the town generally were very largely represented.

None who were present could fail to admire the superb appointments of this lovely home and the hospitality of its occupants is boundless. Mr. and Mrs. Bower received the guests with a very cordial greeting making everyone feel at ease. Three or four graceful little girls made themselves useful as well as ornamental in ushering the guests and in directing them to the proper rooms in which to leave their hats and other street apparel. At a reasonably early hour the spacious apartments were comfortably filled.

Mr. Bower is the possessor of a library filled with costly volumes and it was a rare pleasure to look at such of them as time would permit. The elegant piano was kept constantly vibrating with music, under the skillful touch, first of Prof. W T Meyer and then of Miss Martin of Mifflinburg, who is a guest of Miss Speiglemeyer, and is a fine instrumentalist. At times there were bursts of music from four violins and the accompaniment of the piano. That youthful spirits could be kept at rest under the spell of such inspiring sounds was of course out of the question.

The serving of the refreshments was skillfully done. The ladies of the Reformed church displayed their usual skill in this duty, and as the guests were seated at the several tables in the handsome dining room they were served to sandwiches, a large variety of choice cake, ice cream and coffee.

A very beautiful feature of the music was some of the singing after refreshments. There were numerous fine voices in the company,—those of Mrs. J C Meyer, Miss Jennie Lukenbach, Mr. Lukenbach and others. Almost the entire company gathered on the porch in the moonlight and, led by the skillful singers mentioned, they rendered several songs especially appropriate amidst such bewitching surroundings.

Of course, Rev. Mr. Noll was the principal figure during the entire evening and about 11 o'clock he was called into the library and told to occupy a large rocking chair. The company gathered about him, J C Meyer, Esq., acted as master of ceremonies and called on James Noll, Esq., to relieve himself of a speech which had been burdening his mind during the entire evening. Mr. Noll very happily prefaced his remarks by saying that this was the most delightful occasion he bad known for fifty years. He told the young ladies that they were among the fairest of the fair. Referring to the fact that a minister was present he apologized for doing so much talking when that duty usually devolves on the preacher. He spoke of the success of the reverend gentlemen had met with here, every department of the church work having received a new impetus under his direction. Finally, he remarked that the people of the church had concluded to recognize this usefulness in an appropriate gift, and he pointed to five beatifully and durably bound volumes of Matthew Henry's Commentaries on the Bible which he requested Mr. Noll to accept.

The young clergyman quickly arose from his chair and easily mastered any surprise which the occasion might have caused him. His reply of thanks was most happy and timely and contained plenty of material for serious and profitable reflection. He gave advice in regard to amusements and spoke of the advantages of a literary circle in the church. By way of warning, he intimated that the study of these commentaries might have the effect of lengthening his sermons, but as those for the approaching Sunday were already prepared the people might rest easy on that score. His remarks ended with appropriate wishes for the future of all present, which certainly came with the beauty and force of a benediction.

After this pleasant exercise the writer of this and we believe the company generally bade farewell to the host and hostess and Rev. Mr. Noll and took their departure, all agreeing that the occasion had been a remarkable success.

ANOTHER VOICE.

A WESTERN SURVIVOR OF THE GETTYSBURG ENGAGEMENT EXPRESSES HIS SENTIMENTS.

HILLSDALE, KANSAS, Sept. 2, 1889.

Edward T. Tuten Editor:

As I have been a regular subscriber of your valuable paper for the last eight years, and not having contributed anything to your columns, I would ask only a small space in your paper to voice my feelings upon the Gettysburg excursion. Seeing in a recent issue—that of August 26—an article entitled "The Voice of the People," prompts me to express my feelings. I was so fortunate as to be one of the boys whose names were on the company's roll and engaged in the battle of Gettysburg and a member of that unfortunate Company C, 148th regiment, P. V., and now live outside the prescribed State line. Hence I feel that injustice has been done us in drawing the line in the first place. I do not think there are many Pennsylvania soldiers who participated in that famous battle, now scattered throughout the West—not so many, at least, as to cause the noble Keystone State to go into financial ruin had she extended her generosity to them.

I was born and grew to manhood in that noble State, and when not quite eighteen years of age gave my services to her—an act which the laws of the Government of the United States could not have compelled me to do. Yet she was glad to accept them. No questions regarding transportation were asked, for it was freely given and the State was grateful for our offer of service.

But lo! what a change! Her sons bared their breast as a breastwork on a thousand battlefields from Kansas to South Carolina, and they it was who made it possible for Pennsylvania to stand where she now stands. And yet it makes me feel ashamed of her at the present writing—that in this hour of grandeur she would so far forget her nobility as to pass such a closed bill—even closed so tightly that the soldier who was wounded in the battle of Chancellorsville only two months previous and then lying in the hospital, would be refused transportation. Even our own dear Colonel Beaver, who was wounded there, were he not financially able, could not go to Gettysburg.

While I do not look upon the bill, as interpreted, to be a disgrace to all Pennsylvania's honorably discharged soldiers, I do think it shows the short sightedness of its author and I believe, whoever he is, he should be remembered. But ere long I hope Pennsylvania will make amends for this one bad act. My desire has been many times, to visit the old battlefields from Washington to Appomattox, and when I saw in your paper the passage of the bill and signed by the Governor, I felt rejoiced; but was much disappointed when I read the bill in full and the interpretation of it.

Well, one more word to my comrades who were at Gettysburg. You have met the enemy of our country where duty called you, and if our native state will not aid us in uniting at Gettysburg, she cannot prevent that spirit of brotherly love existing between comrades, though thousands of miles should separate them. I would like to hear from some of my old comrades. I have taken too much space already, so I will close by referring briefly to my adopted State, Kansas, which is now booming with plenty of wheat, oats, potatoes, flax, peaches, apples and apple cider, but no whiskey—in short the best average crop of all cereals since I have been a resident here, which is nearly twelve years.

E. B. WALTER,

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drugstore.

—Mr. Guyer Mattern, the popular young Republican of Patton township, made that honorable and upright canvass for the nomination for Prothonotary which characterizes everything which Guyer does. Every man who ever met Guyer Mattern admires him. His bright, open countenance tells at once that he is an honest and true man. He is the soul of geniality. But for the fact that such a strong candidate as Mr. Fleming was also seeking the nomination Mr. Mattern would have made the nomination triumphantly.

Many Thanks.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church who held such a successful chicken and waffle supper on Thursday evening desire us to very earnestly thank the ladies who helped them, especially those who so willingly performed the laborious and warm work of preparing waffles. The supper was a grand success and netted about $102.

THE TICKET NOMINATED,

Republicans of Centre County Convene in the Court House on Wednesday.

MICHAEL M. MUSSER, WILSON I. FLEMING, W. E. GRAY, ESQ., JESSE CLEAVER AND DR. J. F. WOODS RECEIVE THE HONORS.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

When Chairman Lawrence L. Brown called the Republican County Convention to order on Wednesday afternoon the Court House was well filled with delegates and spectators and others were rapidly arriving.

Dr. Dunwiddie, of Philipsburg, proposed Mr. J B Childs, of that place, for chairman of the convention and he was unanimously chosen. The organization was completed by electing W F Reeder, Esq., for reading clerk and Oscar Miles, of Milesburg, and J H Barton, of Unionville, secretaries.

In taking the chair, Mr. Childs made an excellent speech. One of the most pleasing events in his political career was when he cast a vote for Abraham Lincoln. He predicted that the time is not far distant when the Republicans can easily elect their entire ticket. He believes they can win this year if united.

The reading clerk was requested to read the official call and call the roll.

A committee, consisting of W S Williams, of Huston township; W C Ward, of Philipsburg, and W E McWilliams, of Ferguson township, reported on contested seats. A resolution was offered and adopted that instructions be considered binding only when the candidate so instructed for received a majority of the voets cast.

The committee on resolutions consisted of Col. James P Coburn, of Haines township; Dr. Dunwiddie, of Philipsburg, and Hon. G. Dorsey Green, of Patton township. After about five minutes, during which the convention took a recess, the committee reported the following resolutions, read by Col. J P Coburn, the chairman and adopted with hearty cheers.

RESOLUTIONS.

The Republicans of Centre County in Convention assembled hereby renew their allegiance to the principles and traditions of the Republican party and do hereby pledge anew their support of that party so long as its mission is to better the condition of the people of these United States.

As expressing our attitude on the current questions of the day, it is hereby resolved:

First:—That we heartily commend the fearless and upright course of President Harrison in his administration of national affairs.

Second:—That we take great pride in endorsing the administration of state affairs as directed by that gallant soldier, Governor James A. Beaver. He has given to the people of this state a clean administration; he has exercised wisdom and prudence in the expenditure of public money and he has, by the judicious use of the veto power, demonstrated his ability and fitness to occupy the position he holds.

Third:—That by his untiring and ceaseless work to release this nation from the thralldom and misrule of the Democratic party, Senator M. S. Quay has won the esteem of the people of Pennsylvania, and the approbation of the whole country.

Fourth:—That the official course of Gen'l D. H. Hastings, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, has been such as to merit the approval of the Republicans of Centre County, and his humane and noble services rendered to the survivors of the disaster at Johnstown have elicited the admiration and gratitude not only of this state, but of the entire country; which sentiment is fully concurred in by his friends and neighbors of Centre County.

Fifth:—That we endorse the platform of principles enunciated by the Republican State Convention, and pledge our united support to Henry K. Boyer the candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of State Treasurer.

Sixth:—That we will give our united support to the ticket this day nominated, and will use every honorable means to secure the election of the whole thereof on the 5th day of November next.

On motion of Mr. Quigley the order in which the nominations were to be made was prescribed and the convention at once proceeded to that duty.

ASSOCIATE JUDGE.

Five names were placed in nomination. Dr. Theodore Christ, of College township, nominated Wm. Thompson, Esq., of College township. In doing so he highly eulogized Mr. Thompson, A B Rishel and Geo. Dale, of College township, were named; also Wm J Thompson, of Potters Mills, and Michael M Musser, of Aaronsburg. The latter gentleman was proposed by Col. J P Coburn, of Aaronsburg, who said that Mr. Musser was a soldier and will make a most excellent encumbent of the position. Mr. Musser was nominated on the first ballot, which was as follows:

Wm. Thompson, Esq.,	7
Rishel	4
Dale	38
Wm. J Thompson	5
Musser	61

PROTHONOTARY

Only two names were mentioned for this office. They were Mr. Guyer Mattern, of Patton township, and Wilson I. Fleming, of Bellefonte. The first ballot is given below.

Mattern	36
Fleming	80

DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

It was Col. Coburn's pleasant duty to name W E Gray, Esq. There being no other candidate Mr. Gray was nominated by acclamation.

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Again there were only two names placed in nomination, viz., P W Pletcher, of Howard, and Jesse Cleaver, of Unionville. The ballot resulted in Mr. Cleaver's nomination as will be seen by the figures.

Cleaver	63
Pletcher	52

CORONER.

Dr. J F Woods, of Harris township, was the nominee of the convention for coroner. His nomination was made by acclamation.

Lawrence L Brown, who has so well filled the position of chairman of the county committee, was unanimously re-elected for the coming year.

Mr. Gray, the nominee for District Attorney, was the first to respond to calls for a speech, which he did in excellent style. He was followed by Col. Coburn, who remarked that his time would be limited and that time and trains wait for no man—neither does the Republican party. He predicted a universal triumph of Republican principles, especially in Centre county. The Republican party will make a clean record, perform clean acts and exhibit a clean jail.

The convention was a most enthusiastic one and adjourned in time for the delegates to return to their homes on the Penns Valley train at 2.30 o'clock.

DEATH OF MISS HARRIET DEHAAS.

She Expired at the Home of the Misses Benner in this place, at the age of Ninety Years.

At 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon Harriet De Haas, an aged maiden lady, died at the home of the Misses Benner, in this place, at the age of ninety years. It was also Miss DeHaas' home as she had lived in this family a period of at least 65 years.

The life and reference to the ancestry of this lady are interesting. Her grandfather, J Philip De Haas, was a colonel of the First Pennsylvania Battalion in the war of the Revolution. He was afterwards promoted to the grade of General. His son John Philip DeHaas, Jr., was an ensign in the same regiment. He was married to Miss Ann Shippen, who belonged to a noted Philadelphia family. A sister of Mrs. DeHaas was the wife of Benedict Arnold. John Philip DeHaas, Jr., died at Beech Creek, Clinton county, on September 22, 1826. The children would have inherited vast wealth, but in some manner it left the possession of this family and they were reduced to poverty. Even now legal efforts are in progress to recover this property which amounts to millions of dollars. It being necessary for them to make their own living, Harriet and her sister, Eliza, who still survives, entered the family of Gen. Benner, and are still inmates of the Benner household. Hence, all of the older residents of the town know of them. There are certainly few such remarkable instances of persons, not relatives, being members of the household more than a half century. The death of this lady is deeply felt by those who knew her so well.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon from the residence of the Misses Benner.

Reducing the Force.

The Johnstown Tribune of Tuesday evening says. Yesterday evening the state force of workmen and teams was reduced by the discharge of one hundred laborers, ten foremen, twenty-five double teams, ten carts, two time-keepers and one head boss. The number of employes remaining is about two hundred and fifty and eighty teams and twenty carts. The reduction of the state forces, in view of the condition in which this valley still is, must cause very general regret. There are many bodies still in the debris. Only yesterday the body of a young girl was found, covered with but a few inches of earth, and just the other day the body of a man was taken from a cellar which had not been excavated, although a house had been built over it. Instead of being reduced the forces should be largely increased and the work pushed with all possible vigor before the setting in of winter.

Half-Rates to Washington.

The Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar will be held in Washington October 8th to 11th, 1889. The event will undoubtedly prove one of the most brilliant affairs in the history of the National Capital. The grand parade of brilliantly uniformed Knights, mounted on gayly caparisoned steeds, will be, in itself, a picture worth going miles to witness. Besides this there will be receptions, drills, and other features of interest to others than Knights,

For the benefit of visitors the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Washington from all stations on its system October 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th, valid for return until October 31st, 1889, at a single fare for the round trip.

The specific rate from Bellefonte will be $7.60.

WALKER BLAINE is missing from his place in Washington, and has been for a couple of weeks. ON THE MOUNTAIN.

Our Correspondent at Snow Shoe Contributes a General Resume of News from that Section.

This (September 2) is a delightful day in Snow Shoe. The cool breezes are gently wafted to us and the Jersey Shore band is playing one delightful tune after another on the veranda of Uzzle's hotel.

Grandmother Bechtol, who has been very poorly for some time, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Poorman, of Show Shoe. The funeral took place on Monday at 10 o'clock a. m. Rev. Morton, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preached the funeral sermon. She was buried in the Askey graveyard.

Mrs. Letitia Shank, who has been very poorly for many weeks, is no better. She is past 80 and her death is expected at any moment.

Mr. Wilson Cox and wife, of Harrisburg, Pa., are guests of their uncle, C. T. Cheesman.

Mr. George W. Ray and Mr. Edward Millard—both Snow Shoe men—have just bought from Alfred Thompson his bakery and green grocery. The business will be continued at the old stand by the new firm of Ray & Millard.

Quite a number of Snow Shoe people attended the Bush meeting at Kylertown last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Neff, of Roland, drove to Snow Shoe on Saturday and spent Sunday with their son, Dr. J. W. Neff.

Miss Mary Miles, of Harrisburg, is visiting her relatives at Snow Shoe.

The Republicans held their caucus meeting in the school house at Snow Shoe on Saturday evening and elected four delegates to represent them at the county convention to be held in Bellefonte on Wednesday, the 4th inst. The gentlemen elected as delegates were Jesse Lucas, Frank Strickland, Wm. McDowell and T. B. Budinger.

Miss Sallie Stewart, who has been spending the summer at Huntingdon, Pa., is at home again. Her sister, Miss Maria Stewart, of Huntingdon, is her guest at present writing.

To-day is Labor Day and none of the freight trains on the Beech Creek railroad are running.

Mr. Robert Green, of Jersey Shore, accompanied the Jersey Shore brass band to Snow Shoe to-day. Mr. John G. Uzzle met the band boys at the Beech Creek station and hauled them to Snow Shoe.

Mr. Geo. W. Howell and wife and Miss Mollie Lipton, all of Atchison, Kansas, arrived to-day in the noon train. They took dinner at the Mountain House. After dinner Mr. E. A. Nolan, D. G. Stewart and James Nelan took them for a pleasant drive to Karthaus. They will leave for Achison on Tuesday morning. Miss Stella Nolan will accompany them to their home in the West, where she will attend school.

A Delightful and Successful Reunion of Veterans at Baileyville.

On last Tuesday, September 3, Company E, of the 45th regiment, P. V., celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of their enlistment in the service of their country. The picnic was held in the grove near Baileyville school house. It was in the same grove that the company formed first twenty-eight years ago, and after bidding adieu to friends, left for the front. The company at that time numbered one hundred and four men, of whom but thirty three survive, about twenty being present to take part in the exercises.

In addition to the surviving members of the company, there were present on last Tuesday representatives of other regiments and about fifteen hundred citizens. The Pine Grove Mills, Pine Hall and Pennsylvania Furnace bands and the Baileyville Drum Corps were on the ground at an early hour and furnished plenty of patriotic music during the day.

Rev. Kelley delivered an address of welcome which was responded to by "Corporal" W. H. Musser, in his usually entertaining manner. Corporal Musser was one of the original members that served from '61 to '65, and of course had many amusing incidents to relate. Gen. J. I. Curtain, of Co, "A, "45th regiment, spoke of the regiment's work and the many battles in which they were engaged.

Dinner was served at 12 o'clock and an abundance of provisions was furnished to all present. After an hour or two spent in pleasant conversation and the meeting of friends the audience assembled around the speakers' stand, where during the afternoon, they were addressed by Clement Dale and D. F. Fortney, Esqs, of Bellefonte and Henry Laird, of Huntingdon County. The day was all that anyone could wish. No mishaps occurred, excepting the giving away of the speakers' platform, but as no one was injured by that occurrence, it added a humorous item to that part of the programme.

The occasion will long be remembered by the survivors of Co. E, 45th regiment, and the citizens of that community in general as one of the most pleasant in their experience.

—A few weeks ago we mentioned the remarkable enterprise and pluck displayed by a young boy in Johnstown who was carrying on an extensive business and supporting relatives by his own individual exertions. There is in Centre county an instance which in some respects surpasses it. Near Julian, this county, resides Mr. Joe McKelvey, who is now only nineteen years of age. During several years he farmed, unaided, eighty-three acres, making it yield largely. He also supports several relatives, and does all the work on his farm without help.

Mere Mention from Spring Mills.

The Evangelical festival, on Saturday evening was a partial success, as the festival at Millheim and Farmers Mills were the same evening.

A carriage load from this place, consisting of Messrs. Runkle and Krumrine, accompanied by Misses Ida Grenoble and Sadie Jamison, took a trip to Centre Hall last Saturday evening.

Mr. James Runkle expects to return to college next week. We will miss "Jim greatly as he generally keeps things moving in the Bibby House.

Miss Mira Kaufman is visiting her sister, Mrs. E H Long, of this place. Mrs. Long has been very ill for some time.

Mrs. Dr. Runkle, of Philadelphia, returned home after visiting Mrs. Lucinda Runkle, of this place, for a few weeks.

Mr. I J Grenoble, a former business man of this place, expects to locate in Virginia or Maryland. We are sorry to lose Mr. Grenoble, as he was for a long time Spring Mills' best business man.

J I Underwood, son of Isaac Underwood, has been appointed manifest clerk at Coburn by the P. R. R. Company.

Mr. J B Felty has returned home after finishing his term of school. "Jake" is a good fellow, and just knows how to mash the Spring Mills girls. But it is all right. The distance from Spring Mills to Shingletown is sixteen miles and Nora will never find it out.

Mr. Felix Lee, of Tusseyville, was a visitor at this place last Saturday evening.

—No better candidate for Prothonotary could have been selected than Mr. Wilson I. Fleming, our tall and good looking townsman. He is a young and self-made man. By trade, he is a tailor and has high reputation for skill, having established a most enviably excellent business in Bellefonte. He is a gentleman of the the highest Christian character and sterling worth. No true republican can refuse so vote for him and he should attract to his support numerous democrats who admire true manhood and desire to reward real worth. With such opposing candidates as Fleming and Schaeffer all disagreeable features will be eliminated from the discussions of the campaign.

VINEGAR BITTERS

It is not a vile fancy drink made of rum, poor whisky, or refuse liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, but a purely vegetable preparation, made from native California herbs.

Twenty-five years' use have demonstrated to millions of sufferers throughout the civilized world, that of all the medicines ever discovered Vinegar Bitters only possesses perfect and wonderful curative effects upon those troubled with the following diseases, viz:

It is always safe to take at any time, or under any condition of the system, for old or young or for either sex. It is put up in two styles. The old is slightly bitter, and is the stronger in cathartic effect. The new style is very pleasant to the taste and a perfect medicine for delicate women or children. Each kind is distinctly marked on top of cartoon.

Many families keep both kinds on hand, as they form a complete medicine chest.

As a Family Medicine, for the use of ladies, children and men of sedentary habits, the New Style Vinegar Bitters has no equal in the world. It is invaluable for curing the ills that beset childhood, and gently regulates the diseases to which women at every period of life are subject.

NEW CHURCH.

A BEAUTIFUL EDIFICE ERECTED BY MESSRS. HOLTER AND SCHENCK.

At Mount Eagle the Disciple congregation have been erecting a very neat and elegant church building. It is nearly completed and is a model for beauty and good arrangement. The congregation who will worship in it have thus displayed their energy and zeal and the handsome edifice in which they will soon be privileged to congregate will be a source of much pleasure and satisfaction to them. All who have examined it pronounce it one of the neatest church buildings in Bald Eagle Valley.

The contractors for the work upon it were Capt. H C Holter and Mr. J H Schenck, of Howard. The workmanship everywhere displayed on the building, inside and out, is of the most durable and excellent kind and speaks volumes of praise for them. This is only one specimen of the work they can do and we cannot enumerate all of the important buildings they have erected, which attest to their skill and make them much sought after as builders. They just returned from taking down the Crider, Funtz & Crider mill on top of the mountain, which H C Holter errected in 1882. Hr. Holter has built three mills for them. Among the orders for work which he has yet to complete is the erection of a spire on the M E church at Curtin. It is likely that he will have the contract for the new mill of P B Crider & Son, which they are to erect at Washington Furnace. Messrs. Holter and Schenck are not only good builders, but are entirely responsible and contracts will be carried out to the letter.

To-day at Gettysburg.

The exercises at Gettysburg on Thursday, incident to the unveiling of the monuments erected to mark the positions taken by the Pennsylvania commands in the battle, are as follows:

Brevet Lieut-Colonel George Meade will preside. The Arion Singing Society, with Prof. J. C. Frank, leader, will render the "Star Spangled Banner" and prayer will be offered by Rev. John R. Raxton, D, D, Second Lieutenant 14th Penna, Infantry. The Society will render an anthem, "Praise the Lord:"

The transfer of the new monuments to the Governor will be formally made in an address by Hon. J. P. S. Gobin, Brevet Brigadier General. Governor Beaver will formally accept it in an address.

This will be followed by the reading of a poem entitled "Gettysburg" by Isaac R. Pennypacker, Esq. Brevet Captain Joseph G. Rosengarten will deliver an address on the "The First Day" of the battle—July 1, 1863; and Brevet Brigadier General Henry H. Bingham will follow in an address on "The Second and Third Days"—July 2 and 3, 1863. Followed by Music by Dedication Quartette.

Then Governor Beaver will transfer the monuments to the Battlefield Memorial Association which will be accepted by Hon. Edward McPherson.

The Dedication Quartette and Perseverance Band will render music and Rev. David Craft, D. D., will pronounce the benediction.

The New Deputy Collector.

On Monday morning E R Chambers, Esq., received his appointment as Deputy U. S. Revenue Collector of the 12th District, succeeding W C Heinle, Esq. The appointment is a valuable one and Ed. has our congratulations on his success.

He did not seem to be very anxious about it, and sat quietly in his office until after 11 o'clock, not going to the post-office to see if the important document had arrived, Some of his friends heard of it and called on him, extending congratulations, but it was some time before he could be made to believe that he really was the appointee. In the mail, however, he found the commission which authorizes him to attend to the duties of this office.

The appointment is a most excellent one. Ed. is a true Republican, he has worked faithfully in the interests of the party and besides is a rising member of the legal fraternity. He will transact the somewhat arduous and quite responsible duties of the office in a way that will afford general satisfaction.

The Sad Accident to Mrs. Jennie Mauck.

A brief item in the DAILY NEWS on Monday stated that Mrs. Jennie Mauck, of near Salona, Clinton county, had accidentally sustained a fatal wound from a revolver on Saturday morning. The remains were taken to Tyrone and the funeral is being conducted by Rev. Geo. Leidy this afternoon. The story of the sad accident by which Mrs. Mauck lost her life last Saturday morning is as follows: Mr. Mauck had loaded his revolver Friday evening before retiring for the night, on account of some animal having been troubling his chickens the night previous. The revolver lay on a table by the bedside and Mrs. Mauck having arisen and put on her clothing picked up the weapon and was wiping it off with a cloth when it was accidentally discharged. Her husband was dressing himself in the same room at the time. Mrs. Mauck gave a scream, ran down stairs and fell, expiring a moment later. The bullet passed through the heart and lodged in her body.

At the Granger Picnic.

This paper will be represented at the Granger picnic next week by Mr. E. T. Tuten and by Mr. Reuben H. Smith. They will be there during the entire picnic, and will be very glad to meet any of the friends of the paper.

He will have a special tent on the ground with the name of the paper fully indicated on the outside and anyone who desires to see them and perhaps subscribe for the cheapest and best paper in Centre county can easily find the tent. Anyway, call at the tent and you will meet with a pleasant reception.

SUDDEN DEATH OF HON. SAMUEL H. REYNOLDS, AT LANCASTER.

The announcement of the sudden death of Hon. Samuel H. Reynolds, of Lancaster, came with unusual force this morning to the many friends of that gentleman in Bellefonte. The exact cause can only be conjectured. On Monday Major Wm. F. Reynolds, his brother, received word of his serious illness. In the evening came a telegram stating that he was better, and this morning the information of his death was received by Major Reynolds. His death leaves Major Wm. F. Reynolds the only survivor of five brothers—Major Wm. F., Elisha, Charlee, Thomas and Samuel.

The deceased was prominent as a citizen of Lancaster and as he had taken an eminently distinguished part in politics, was known throughout the State. He was a member of the State Constitutional Convention. At one time he was mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Governor, which he declined and he has been spoken of as a compromise candidate in connection with the judicial contest in which Judge Hagenman of Berks county is concerned. By profession he was a lawyer and had attained high standing at the bar of Lancaster county, taking part in important cases throughout the State. At the beginning of this year Mr. Reynolds formally retired from the practice of the law and devoted himself exclusively to the management of the People's National Bank, of which he was President. Another strange fact in this connection is that the death of Robt. A. Ivens, Vice President of the bank, occurred about two weeks ago, thus removing the two principal officials within two weeks. Under his administration the institution had attained great success. Several times he was tendered the nomination for Congress.

His widow and five children survive. His daughters are Mrs. Frank Harris, Misses Mary and Maud. His oldest son, W. Fred Reynolds, is now traveling in Europe. The other son is Samuel H. Reynolds. The deceased was about 58 years of age.

Major Reynolds departed this morning for Lancaster to attend the funeral. Our sincere sympathy is with him and other relatives of the deceased.

The Big Sea Wave.

On Sunday the people at Atlantic City and at Rockaway Beach were much frightened. There had been a long and strong northwest wind which made the sea run "mountain high" and caused one especially large wave to come floating in. At Atlantic City the people were gathered on the boardwalk watching the truly wild waves when the great one came. It caused the people to run wildly inland, but one old lady who was caught would have been washed back into the sea had not Albert, the pedestrian, boldly plunged in after her and succeeded in rescuing her, greatly frightened, but decidedly more alive than dead. The waves also washed away part of Mr. George W. Jackson's bathing pavillion (Bellefonte's George W. Jackson, of course) and did other damage, the well known Traymore hotel being a sufferer to some extent.

At Rockaway Beach it caused 2,000 people to stampede. There were many narrow escapes, but no one was drowned.

—Two weeks old Reuben H. Grafsmeyer is the son of Mr. William Grafsmeyer of Milesburg. The way he obtained his name, Reuben H., was from Mr. Reuben H. Smith, of that place. Mr. Wm. Grafsmeyer is a Democrat and will naturally desire to make a Democrat of his son, but Reuben Smith says that if he has any influence in that direction he will see that the young man grows up to vote the straight Republican ticket.

To Deliver an Address.

Major R. H. Forster, of the internal affairs department, is to deliver the historical address at the dedication of the monument of the One Hundred and Forty-eighth Pennsylvania volunteers, at Gettysburg, to-day. Major Forster is a soldier of two wars, the Mexican and civil, and is a writer and scholar of fine ability. His address will be worth preserving among the war literature of the country.

—Mrs. Jennie Mauck, wife of George Mauck, who lives a mile and a half from Salona, Clinton county, accidentally shot herself on Saturday morning. She was cleaning a pistol which was accidentally discharged, the ball piercing near her heart. She died in a few moments after receiving the wound.

NEXT WEEK'S EXHIBITION.

The Grangers of Central Pennsylvania Now Ready for a Grand Time.

Tuesday morning of next week, September 17, begins the Sixteenth Annual Grangers' Picnic-Exhibition of Central Pennsylvania, in Colonel Taylor's Fort Woods, at Centre Hall. The arrangements for a very successful week's meeting are all complete.

Besides the large list of eminent speakers, lecturers and instructors, the amusement programme is complete as well. One of the attractive features will be the cyclorama of Gettysburg, which alone will be worth many miles of travel to see. C. K. Sober, the champion wing shot of America, will give exhibitions at stated intervals during the week.

The railroad and excursion ticket arrangement will suit everybody. Seven trains each day between Montandon and Centre Hall, as well as from the latter place to Bellefonte. The last train for Bellefonte in the evening will run through to Milesburg.

The applications for tents and exhibition privileges are far greater than were anticipated, but everybody will be properly cared for. It will be the largest gathering of farmers and their friends that was ever known in Central Pennsylvania.

It is Said—.

That this is the harvest moon.

That the veterans will have a high old time at Gettysburg.

That September will be a pleasant month.

That the woods are full of them—hunters.

That the Gazette last week used a very redundant form of expression when it remarked that a "visible form will soon be seen."

That Monday's Philadelphia Press remarked: "Bellefonte is the home of a tall, slim young man with a light moustache, who greeted a number of familiar faces at the Lafayette yesterday. The young man was Andrew Gregg Curtin, Jr., the son of Pennsylvania's war Governor. He chatted with a quiet group, in which was Frederick Guild, Jr., a member of a well known family of Boston." In which we notice that even Pennsylvania's greatest daily paper makes a mistake.

That an Albany, N. Y., lady adopted the fashion of taming squirrels and fastening them by chains to her belt. They accompany her in her walks on the street and her bustle is a favorite resting place for them.

That George W Allen, better know as "Land Bill Allen," the father of the Homestead Law, was sold out by the Sheriff at Columbus, Ohio, last Saturday. He planned to have homes for others, but has none of his own.

Prohibition County Convention.

The Prohibitionists of Centre county will meet in mass convention, in the Court House, at Bellefonte, Pa., on Thursday, September 19th, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a county ticket, electing officers for the ensuing year and transacting such business as may come before the convention. All persons favorable to constitutional or statutory prohibition are earnestly requested to be present. The fight will not be given up until every American saloon is abolished; This cannot be done in a non-partisan campaign as was plainly shown in the election of June 18th. The Prohibition party is the only one that stands pledged for the total overthrow of the liquor traffic and the preservation of our homes and institutions. Let every friend of prohibition help to make this convention the grandest ever held in the county. See that every voting precinct be fully represented.

BY ORDER COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Abandoning the Canal.

The Harrisburg Patriot says the work of repairing has been stopped on the Pennsylvania Canal for all the season, and it is understood that it will never be resumed west of Rope Ferry or north of Muncy dam. The canal on the Juniata between Huntingdon and Newton Hamilton, a distance of twenty miles was abandoned and of the remaining seventy miles but ten have been restored this summer. This restored section is from the Susquehanna to Rope Ferry, where there are ore beds that give some freight, but the expense of repairing the remaining sixty miles is estimated to be more than the property would be worth when ready for use. The expenditures last year were $17,108 over the receipts, and $2,630 the year before. Moreover the tonnage is constantly decreasing, and every pound of the freight could be carried by the Pennsylvania railroad, which owns the canal company's stock.

An Aged Colored Woman.

There is a very old colored woman living near Buffalo Run. Her name is Eliza Stanton. She is said to be 105 years of age. In summer time she continues to go to the mountain to pick berries, and can often be seen coming down the hillside, supporting herself with a staff in one hand and carrying a bucket of berries in the other.

But her age is uncertain, and it is generally believed that she is not so old as some people assert. We do not think that any special efforts have been made to find out her exact age. But she is certainly far advanced in years and one of the many illustrations of vigorous old age for which Centre county is so well known.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. A. V. Smith departed on Saturday morning for Gettysburg to visit the battlefield. He expects to be absent about a week.

Hon. Edward A Bigler, of Clearfield, county easily captured the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Perot, of Philadelphia, arrived on Friday and are guests at the residence of Mrs. Reuben Valentine, in the suburbs.

Mr. Robert Voris puts in some of his spare time in the evening in selling a valuable fountain pen, of which his father is the inventor.

Mr. W E McWilliams, the new postmaster at Pennsylvania Furnace, pleased us very much by calling while he was in Bellefonte on Wednesday.

W. I. Swoope, Esq., departed on Thursday afternoon, for a visit to his home in Curwensville. He will be away from town until Thursday of next week.

Mr. Howard Lingle spent Tuesday in Howard, attending to the details of the arrangement for the new Howard Iron Works, which he has purchased in connection with the Messrs. Jenkins.

Mrs. Reuben Valentine, and her two daughters, Misses Carrie and Anna, returned on Thursday evening after a very extended absence, much of the time, we believe, being passed in New England.

Miss Minnie Hoy, who has been teaching music in Coalport, Clinton county, the past summer, has been a great success. On Tuesday evening her pupils gave a concluding concert which was attended by some Bellefonte people.

W. M. Speer, of Huntingdon, who is not only the son of Hon. R. Milton Speer, but is a New York newspaper man of rising prominence, has been made secretary to the committee of the proposed World's Fair, to be held in 1892.

Mr. Harry Sayre has severed his connection with the postal agency and is now traveling for a prominent business firm. Mr. Sayre is a bright young gentleman with great business atpitude and is a desirable acquisition to any department of business.

Master Sim Baum, of Montgomery's store, is endowed with an excellent memory and quick wit. He can remember the minutest detail, even to the size of collar worn by ye editor, which is not as large as Mr. Cleveland's. Hence, Master Baum makes an invaluable clerk.

We were very much pleased on Monday afternoon by a visit from that excellent citizen of Howard, Mr. Jonathan Schenck. Mr. Schenck has no superior as a citizen and as a liberal gentleman in Centre county. We shall be pleased to see him as often as he can come to Bellefonte.

Mrs. Nancy Antes, who has resided in Bellefonte several months, departed on Wednesday evening for an extended visit in Rosenhane, Trenton and other parts of New Jersey. She will be gone quite a long time, staying most of the time with friends in Rosenhane. Before coming here she lived in Howard and made many friends in Bellefonte.

Miss Annie Cleaver, of Howard street, departed on Tuesday for Gettysburg to see the great battle field where the Rebels were so disastrously smitten. Miss Annie is a lovely young lady and an excellent compositor and is herself the heroine of numerous great conquests—not in battles, you know, but in smiting the hearts of the young gentlemen. They will feel very lonely until her return.

Mr. C. E. Oberheim, the agreeable foreman of the Democrat printing office at Lock Haven, accompanied by his friend, Mr. L. M. Smale, a merchant in that city, attended a picnic at Eagleville on Thursday and then came on to Bellefonte. These gentlemen not only consider Bellefonte air as absolutely necessary to their health, but consider frequent visits to the Bellefonte girls essential to their happiness, which fact assures us that we will soon see them in Bellefonte again.

General D H Hastings spent Sunday at his home in this place.

Hon. T. P. Rynder is not at the St. Cloud Hotel in Houtzdale.

Miss Ollie Tripple is at home again after a very pleasant visit in Lancaster.

Mrs. K. B. McKee, of New York City, is a guest of her cousin L. M. Glenn in this place.

Mr. Hurlburt, the new State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., paid a brief visit to Bellefonte last week.

Miss Bessie Bridge, one of Clearfield's charming young ladies, is the guest of the Misses Weaver, on Howard street.

Mr. Bond Valentine departed on Monday for Altoona, where we understand he expects to remain quite a long time.

Mr. Chas. Callaway, of Johnstown, spent Sunday here. He is rapidly rebuilding the destroyed city of Johnstown.

Miss Trafford, of Howard, is visiting Miss Strickland. Mr. and Mrs. M I Gardner, are also guests at Mr. Cyrus Strickland's residence.

Miss Mary Thomas, daughter of J V Thomas, Esq., returned home on Saturday evening from Clearfield, where she was the guest of Miss Smith.

Mr. W V Hughes is recovering from his prolonged and very prostrating attack of typhoid fever. He has now been ill a month, which is unfortunate in view of his pressing work at Johnstown. Mr. Chas. Callaway, however, is very efficiently filling Mr. Hughes' place in rushing the work.

Rev. Madison C Peters has left the Northern Liberties church in Philadelphia and gone to New York. Rev. Peters must have been quite popular in Philadelphia, judging by the attention given him by the papers. This surprises us, as our opinion formed of him when he lectured in Bellefonte, last winter, was that he must be a veritable empty headed clown in the pulpit.

Death of Hon. S. S. Cox.

The saddest fears have been realized. Hon. Samuel Sullivan Cox, member of Congress and distinguished diplomat and literateur, died in New York City at 8.30 on Tuesday evening. His illness was brief.

The end was quiet, and the dying man breathed his last peacefully as if falling into a light sleep. Mrs. Cox, who had been scarcely away from her husband's bedside for the past two days and nights, held his left hand, while his old friend, Douglass Taylor, held the other.

He had been conscious all day until about a quarter of an hour before the end. Dr. Lockwood was in attendance at the time. Nicholas Keaney, Wm. Huchfield, two nurses and two servants were in the room also. All knelt about the bed. Cox's last conversation was about the four Territories whose Statehood he hoped to father. He mentioned New Mexico and Arizona and said something about making great efforts in their behalf at the coming cession.

Two hours before he died, his colored servant, who had just come on from Washington, went to the bed and Mrs. Cox asked her husband if he recognized him. He looked at him and patted him on the shoulder. The colored man's eyes filled with tears while all were deeply affected. In the afternoon, while Dr. Lockwood was talking to him, Cox made some witty remark which completely upset the Doctor's dignity.
